By HENRY B. JAMES
London, March 19—(P)—Only
one of Germany's 20 synthetic oil
plants and but 19 of her 78 coke
ovens are operating and the Allies
are gaining a mounting mastery
over all forms of movement inside Germany. A high percentage
in Britain's war councils told a specially summoned press conference today.

His statement was made as 1,800
American bombers and fighters hit
jet plane installations and war industries in southern Germany and
the RAF again showered 11 and 6-
ton bombs on the Arnberg and Bielefeld viaducts in the Ruhr area.

London, March 19—(P)—RAF
heavy bombers hammered two
vital German communications centers behind the western front last night while Mosquitos delivered
their 27th straight night raid on Berlin, still smoking from a record-breaking daylight assault by 1,300 U. S. bombers Sunday.

Targets of the British heavies
were Witten, 26 miles east of Duisburg in the heart of the Ruhr
valley, and Manau, about six miles east of Frankfurt-am-main.

Both blows apparently were carried out in great strength.
The German radio indicated the assaults on the Reich were being

U. S. Flying Fortresses and Li-bersators which hit Berlin Sunday
rained 3,000 tons of bombs on the battered capital at the crushing
rate of 50 tons a minute. It was the 34th successive daylight assault upon Germany by American
warplanes.

Seven hundred U. S. fighters accompanied the great armada of
heavy bombers.

While the Yank bombers concentrated on railroad yards in the heart of Berlin and armament
plants in the industrial suburbs,
one group of American Mustangs
range beyond and teamed up with 15 Russian fighter-planes in defending a Russian-held airfield east of the Oder river from Nazi dive-bombers.

In southwest Germany, U. S.
Tactical Air Command planes
smashed at Germany's Palatinate
with record quantities of ammunition in support of the fast-moving
troops of the U. S. Third Army.

Food Situation In England Alarming

London, March 19—(P)—Public
agitation mounted today with persistent rumors of an impending
food crisis and it appeared that
the rising tide of civilian alarm
might force some announcement in common shortly.

Disclosure by Washington that
the United States planned to cut lend-lease aid supplies by 87 per cent during the next quarter has caused a mild sensation through England.

London newspapers pointed out
yesterday that the new allotment
of 25,000,000 pounds in the next
three months, contrasted with 200,000,000 pounds for the present
quarter, would break down the ration of American meat to less than one ounce per person per week.

Sharon, March 19—(P)—A
woman was killed on her first airplane ride and the pilot was badly
injured when a two-place ship
crashed in a field south of here
yesterday. The victim was Mrs.
Betty Bowman, 22, of Sharon. The plane was flown by Edward Banas, 26, of Sharon, and started its flight from Youngstown, Ohio,
municipal port.

Member of Co. I Reported Missing Now Listed Killed

Word has been received by this family that S/Sgt. Robert S. Ferry, member of Company I, 112th Infantry, was killed in action in Germany on November 8, first word had concerning him since he was previously reported missing in action as of the same date.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs.
Dale Ferry, now residing at 515
West Fifth avenue, and husband of Elaine Ferry, who with his son, Elwin Glen, lives with her parents
at Waterloo, N. Y.

Sgt. Ferry left Warren in February, 1941, with Company I, going from Indiantown Gap to Camp
Livingston, La., Camp Gordon
Johnston, Fla., and Camp Pickett, Va., before going overseas in October, 1943. He served in England,

American Armies Nearing Junction In Triangle Gap

Tanks of the U. S. Third Unit Slice to Within 14 Miles
of Rhine Gateway of Mainz With Seventh
Continuing to Deepen Wedge

ENEMY PULLING BACK FROM THE HOLLAND AREA

By JAMES M. LONG
Paris, March 19—(P)—An estimated 80,000 Germans ran for the Rhine today in a desperate daylight retreat under perfect strafing
weather which turned the northern half of the Bavarian Palatinate
into a slaughter ground and the rich Saarland into a death trap.
Swift tank and infantry columns of the Third and Seventh Armies surged within 15 miles of each other between St. Wendel and the Zweibruecken areas of the Saarland and within 42 miles of a junction farther west in the Palatinate.

Tanks shot within 14 miles of Mainz on the bend of the Rhine.
This was the last debacle west of the Rhine and the German First
and Seventh Armies were losing terrific numbers of men and machines in their rout.

Tanks of the U. S. Third Army sliced to within 14 miles of the Rhine gateway city of Mainz today, and with advancing Seventh Army troops deepened wedges threatening a double entrapment of perhaps 80,000 Germans fleeing the great Saarland triangle under punishing aerial strikes.

Americans in the Remagen bridgehead—still expanding slowly,
despite collapse of the Ludendorff bridge—fought on the edge of the plain running north to the Ruhr. In the north, Germans apparently were pulling back from the Holland area north of Nijmegen.

Armored columns of the Third Army thrust to within 22 and 45 miles of junctions with the American Seventh Army in the Saar triangle, and the two armies steadily
were closing these gaps menacing
envelopment of sizeable portions of battered German divisions.

One push south of Birkenfeld
carried to within 22 miles of Seventh Army troops pushing up behind Saarbruecken. A still greater pincer was closing farther east in
the Kaiserslautern area, where vanguards of the Third and Seventh Armies were 45 miles apart.
Third Army tanks had poured
across the Nahe River at Bad
Kreuznach and were 19 miles from Kaiserslautern. Seventh Army
troops, gaining up to half a dozen miles along a 50-mile front, were 26 miles from that highway escape center.

Northeast of Bad Kreuznach, the Fourth Armored Division captured
Sprelingden, 14 miles southwest of Mainz, one of the principal escape
routes for Germans in the huge,
dwindling Saar pocket.

Russian forces struck westward
along the Pomeranian coast from fallen Kolberg, on the flank of the First White Russian Army fighting
for Stettin and the mouth of the Oder river. Pressure to topple Stettin, where fighting surged in
outer suburbs, mounted.

Kolberg's fall eliminated one of
the bypassed "kettles" of German
resistance, whose liquidation is a preliminary to a full-scale assault
on Berlin. Moscow dispatches hinted the great blow from the Oder toward Berlin would begin
in the early spring.

Germans were abandoning tanks,
artillery, and self-propelled guns in
their retreat from the Saarland.
Front dispatches said the Luden-
dorff bridge, which collapsed Saturday from strain under the overweight of a main girder by German demolitions when it was captured

POPE BROADCASTS APPEAL

Rome, March 19—(P)—Pope
Pius XII yesterday urged an end
to "the ideology of absolute nationalism, the pride of race and
blood and the desire for hegemony
in the possession of worldly goods"
as an important step toward lasting peace. The Pontiff, speaking before thousands of Italians massed
in St. Peter's square, directed his appeal particularly to those who have allowed themselves to be seduced by the advocates of violence.

He also leaves a grandmother,
Mrs. Frank Fagley, living at Crown.

Father Alfred Bauer will sing a requiem mass for the young sergeant at nine o'clock tomorrow morning in St. Joseph's church.

Mrs. Lillian Madigan, 10 Clark street, has received through the Red Cross confirmation that her son, Pfc. William Madigan, is a German prisoner of war.

Nazis Facing Yank Trap

Thousands of Nazi troops are faced with entrapment following the lightning push of Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army tanks for more than 35 miles along the Rhine south of Koblenz, and the coordinated drive of the U. S. Seventh Army in the Saar that saw the fall of Bitche for the first time in that city's 200-year history. Above

LaGuardia Order Extending Curfew Stirs Much Confusion

New York, March 19—(P)—Tempestuous, swift-moving Mayor F.
H. LaGuardia has changed the three-week-old Byrnes midnight curfew
a full hour later than for the rest of the country, pleasing and puzzling
the city's thousands of amusement places, but drawing a chorus of disapproval from other metropolitan centers.

Asserting "a rigid 12 o'clock curfew won't work in New York City," LaGuardia made his regular Sunday radio broadcast the vehicle to announce granting of "an additional hour of tolerance," extending the closing time of all amusement place to 1 a. m.

The order became effective last night. The mayor cautioned, "If
this hour of tolerance is abused,
we will shove it right back. But I don't think it will be abused."

LaGuardia blamed the midnight
closing time for producing "too
much rapid drinking," tending to spur illegal liquor sales and creating troublesome round-midnight

BULLETIN

Washington, March 19—(P)—
Senator Bridges (R-NH)
said today that War Mobilizer
James F. Byrnes either should make New York City comply
with the midnight curfew or
lift it for the whole country.
Bridges told the senate that Mayor Fiorella La Guardia
had assumed the responsibility
of permitting the sale of food
and drinks in New York City
until 1 a. m. Other government officials, obviously caught
by surprise, tried to figure out
what, if anything they could
do about La Guardia's "hour of
tolerance."

and night club goers flooded into midtown streets.

The mayor stipulated the extra
hour should be used to "allow payment of bills and other matters,"
dismissing the city's own recent
midnight-closing law with "We won't report any violations till 1
o'clock."

There was only annoyance—
criticism and expressions of outrage from other cities.

Allied Submarines In China Sea Area

By the Associated Press
San Francisco, March 19—(P)—
Tokyo radio reported today a
fleet of Allied submarines has
moved from waters off Indo-China
into the China sea to cut off Japan's tenuous supply lines from her
conquered southern territory.

The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said the subs were trying "to get near to Japan proper and to interrupt the Japanese supplies to
the southern regions." Nipponese
planes were sent out to attack the undersea fleet.

Simultaneously a Japanese imperial communiqué, also heard by FCC, reported that American carrier planes were continuing their
raids on southwestern Japan today
and claimed without confirmation
that five U. S. warships were sunk
one damaged and 46 carrier planes
shot down. Previously Tokyo radio
asserted five warships were sunk
and nine damaged.

The FBI expects to return Medley to Washington for trial in the

WIDESPREAD RAIDS STAGED OVER JAPAN

Giant B-29s, Paying Pre-
Dawn Return to Nagoya,
Loose 2500 or More Tons
Of Incendiaries

KYUSHU ALSO VISITED

Guam, March 19—(P)—Hundreds of carrier planes and probably 350 Superforts—flying an estimated 3000-plus sorties—bombed
Japan with more than 5000 tons of
incendiaries and high explosives
Sunday and Monday.

The giant B-29s, paying a pre-
dawn return visit to Nagoya to finish up the destruction started
just one week ago, loosed 2500 or
more tons of incendiaries on Japan's sixth largest city and principal airplane manufacturing center.

White-hot pin-points of fire dotted precisely over Nagoya were
"spreading and merging into a solid mass of flame that pretty
well covered the whole target
area" pilots said. Several reported
great explosions.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz
reported very tersely in a communique that a large carrier task
force bombed Kyushu, southern-
most of the empire's home islands,
Sunday. He said air bases and

In Washington, a 26th Airforce
headquarters communique described the results as ranging from
good to excellent.

Opposition from Jap fighter
planes was "meager and ineffective" the communique said, although anti-aircraft fire was
heavier than in the attack on Nagoya eight days ago. None of the B-29s was lost as the result of
enemy action.

Radio Tokyo, however, said 1400
carrier planes struck Kyushu both
Sunday and Monday. Domei
(Japanese) news agency reported
that Shikoku island, immediately
northwest of Kyushu, and southern Honshu also were bombed.

Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher,
commander of the world's greatest carrier force which has blasted the Pacific empire's planes, ships and
ground installations from Rabaul
to Tokyo itself, presumably commanded the seaborne task force.

The carrier raids, requiring the
fleet to remain overnight within 200 or 250 miles of the Japanese
homeland, constituted the third coy in five weeks to the imperial fleet to come out for battle. That the Japanese navy did not come
out is further proof of the thoroughness of the defeats administered the emperor's fleet in the June and October battles of the Philippines.

Louis P. Lochner has obtained a remarkable account of last July's attempt on Hitler's life directly from one of the participants. Lochner, who was chief of the former Associated Press bureau in Berlin, is again in Germany hoping to return soon to the Nazi capital.

Participant Tells Story Of Hitler Plot

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Copyright, 1945, by the Associated Press

Bonn, Germany, March 19—(P)— A man who is a fugitive from German authority because he was implicated in the July 20 bombing attempt on Hitler's life has told me that the fuhrer, fully aware that the war is lost, now peps himself up from time to time watching movies showing the purging of generals and nobles who died for their part in the plot.

My informant, who gave a complete story of the bomb plot, is a man I have known for years and in whose integrity and veracity I have a firm belief.

This man, because he has been hunted, has not seen his home
since July and has changed sleeping quarters constantly to avoid detection. He desires even now, when under Allied rule, to have his name withheld because he has numerous relatives beyond the Rhine.

Here is his story:
The bomb attempt failed because Hitler did not receive his officers in a concrete bunker July 20, but in a wooden shed to show Mussolini and high Italians he was not afraid of air raids. The Italians were scheduled to attend a ceremony incorporating remnants of the fascist army into the wehrmacht.

The bomb's effectiveness had been calculated on the assumption that the explosion would occur in a much smaller room than where Hitler at this time sat. The bunker, with concrete walls, was to heighten the impact of the blast.

Secondly, it failed because at the moment of the explosion, Hitler stepped to a cupboard to look for a magnifying glass. The bomb had been placed under his chair.

Even so, Hitler was badly hurt.
His hearing apparently has been impaired permanently. His right arm was injured, but nursed back to health by Professor Gohrband, noted Berlin physician. He also suffered some burns.

With the Americans Across
the Rhine, March 19—(P)—The Ludendorff bridge, whose central span collapsed Saturday, can be repaired and it probably will be
in operation again soon as a vital
lifeline supporting U. S. First Army operations east of the Rhine
river.

That was the view expressed by U. S. army officials, who declared that loss of the structure,
even temporarily, would not affect the First Army's ability to
hold its bulging bridgehead across
the water barrier.

(The American Broadcasting
station in Europe, in a dispatch
recorded by CBS, said the bridge

San Francisco, March 19—
(P)—Japan today admitted
the loss of Iwo Jima.

The government controlled
Tokyo radio reported the Japanese garrison made their
"last general attack" at midnight Saturday "after one
month of bitter resistance."

The broadcast, recorded by
the Federal Communications Commission, said marines had gradually broken through defense positions and "consequently the communications
have more or less the tendency to stop."

London, March 19—(P)—A new Russian offensive in Hungary has
advanced to the north of Mor, 39
miles west of Budapest and 98
miles from Vienna, the German
high command said today.

Ukrainian army of Marshal Ivan
Konev has plunged forward for
gains of 15 miles or more, reaching the area of Neustadt, less than three miles from the border of Czechoslovakia, and attacking on both sides of Neisse, 15 miles
northwest of Neustadt, the Germans said. Neustadt is 57 miles southeast of besieged Breslau.

In the north Marshal Gregory
Zhukov wheeled Russian divisions
westward from the operations
around captured Kolberg on the Baltic to add impetus to the battle
Oder.

Kolberg, devastated by a 13-day
siege, fell yesterday, a Russian
communique announced, as a
savage struggle mounted from the eastern suburbs of Stettin to Wol-
lin island in the Oder estuary.

Marshal Zhukov's infantry and artillery today were pressing home
new attacks in this flank drive, which is a preliminary to the grand assault on Berlin.

Meanwhile, German forces trapped
southwest of Koenigsberg in East Prussia reeled back into final
defensive positions on the outskirts of Braunsberg and Heiligenbell, and other Soviet troops punched ahead in southern Slo-vacia in the low Tatars mountains

Washington, March 19—(P)—
The senate voted unanimously today for an investigation of food shortages. Proposed in an effort to find a solution to tightening supplies
of meat and other commodities, the resolution was approved by voice vote without debate.

Washington, March 19—(P)—A
new and tighter squeeze on food,
shoes, tires and manpower may
become even more discomforting
to the home front as the Allies
close in on Berlin and Tokyo.

Government officials frankly predict this today, saying there will
be little if any relief as long as the two-front war continues. They added that civilian meat allocations
—cut to the lowest point in ten
years for the April-June quarter—
are not expected to increase much
before both Germany and Japan
are defeated.

A 12 per cent cut in the home
front's meat supply was announced over the weekend as the OPA
slashed April passenger tire quotas 37 per cent below this month's
level.

In another reflection of the war's
quickening pace, Selective Service
said that to retain more young and irreplaceable men in industry it
will be necessary to draft more
men over 29.

The cut in civilian meat allocations will give the armed forces
four per cent more in the next
three months than in this quarter.
It means rationing at home at the
rate of 115 pounds a person a
year—30 pounds less than last year
and ten pounds under the 1935-39
average.

Announcing the meat program,
the Office of War Information also disclosed that sharp reductions in lend-lease meat shipments have
been ordered to maintain this
country's supply at what it termed
a safe level.

Torrance State Patient Is Killed

Torrance, March 19—(P)—"It
is the same old story of overcrowded conditions and lack of trained help," declared Dr. Joseph Cameretta today, commenting on
the violent death of Silas Green, 47, patient at Torrance State
Hospital.

Dr. H. Albert MacMurray, Westmoreland county coroner, said
Green died Saturday from a frac-
tured skull, the result of a blow
on the head from a 15-pound sash
weight. The coroner said another patient, Theodore Holtz, 27, with whom Green had fought, was being held in custody pending an inquest.

Dr. Cameretta, assistant to Dr.
John Wiseman, superintendent of the hospital, said "an insane person may become dangerously insane at a second's notice. Trained help could detect the signs and
notify the doctors in time to prevent explosions such as this."

Kane Police Chief Stricken Suddenly

Kane, March 19—(P)—Neal C.
Fulmer, 45, police chief in this McKean county community for six months, died suddenly at his home yesterday.

Fulmer, member of the borough police force for a decade, became ill Friday and was scheduled to enter the Community hospital today. Surviving are his widow, two sons and a daughter.

In 1938 Fulmer was seriously wounded in the back by a shotgun fired only 10 feet away. He was many months recuperating from the wound, suffered while he was quelling a disturbance in a barroom.

There was no confirmation from Allied headquarters.)
The collapse was blamed on a weakened main supporting girder
that had been damaged by an enemy demolition charge before the Americans captured the 1,200-foot railroad span on March 7.

About 200 army engineers working on the bridge were plunged into the Rhine 70 feet below when the central span gave way with a rumble and shudder. Many were rescued. There was no official tally of the dead and injured.

Censorship permitted disclosure of the collapse yesterday—at about the same time the German high command announced that four German officers had been executed for cowardice or negligence in permitting the bridge to be seized intact.

Don Schuler Announces For Recorder

Donald E. Schuler announced this morning he is a candidate for the office of register and recorder, subject to the decision of the Republican voters of Warren county at the June 19th, 1945, primary. Many of his friends during the past few weeks have urged him to run. As Mr. Schuler has served in the capacity of chief clerk to the Warren county commissioners for the past nine years, his record of public service is favorably known to the people of Warren county. The knowledge and experience gained in county governmental affairs during this period would be of great value both to Mr. Schuler and the public in the conduct of the affairs of the office of register and recorder, because this important office is largely a record office, careful work and supervision are of vital importance.

Donald E. Schuler was born in Warren May 27, 1897, educated in Warren schools and is a member of the Presbyterian church of North Warren, where he has resided for the past fifteen years.

As every one knows, Don Schuler has been generous in the contribution of time and energy to the civic affairs of his community as well as having played an active role in veterans organizations for many years, serving of commander of Chief Cornplanter Post of the American Legion, of which he is now a member, as well as being a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and other veterans organizations.

In World War I, Mr. Schuler served with the American Expeditionary Forces in France, being a member of Company I, 112th Infantry, 28th Division, from May 4th, 1917, to May 6th, 1919, at which time he was honorably discharged from the United States Army.

Mr. Schuler is married and has two daughters, Mrs. Schuler being the former Helen Sharnan of North Warren.

This is the first time Mr. Schuler has been a candidate for elective office and he feels his experience and training would enable him to conduct the affairs of the office of register and recorder to the satisfaction of the citizens of Warren county.

Petitions are being circulated in his behalf and many of his friends will welcome the opportunity to show their support of his candidacy by signing a petition.

Quite a Guy—In His Time

Hey, spot the bristles! And long hair, too. That's about the average remark our Ninth Army Yanks make on seeing this statue in the town of Moers, Germany, of Frederick I of Prussia, who was quite well known as a militarist in his time, too.

GIs and Missionary From Tidioute Form First Boy Scout Troop In Teheran

From Teheran, Iran, comes an army communication that is so different from most of the overseas news releases that many readers will find it of more than usual interest. It reads:

Thousands of miles from home in a land no longer strange to them, five American soldiers are promoting international good will by their sponsorship of a Boy Scout troop that comprises 11 nationalities and a half-dozen religious sects. Fifty-four boys ranging in age from 12 to 18 years make up Troop 1, Teheran, one of the few troops outside the continental limits of the United States and the only one in Iran accredited to the Boy Scouts of America.

Scoutmaster of the English-speaking boys is a North Dakotan, U. S. Samuel F. Skiff, a member of the Signal Service Company, and one of thousands of Persian Gulf Command troops who have moved nearly 5,000,000 tons of war material to Soviet Russia. Aiding him are five other GIs, a British corporal and two Presbyterian missionaries.

Chairman of the committee is Dr. John Elder, formerly of Tidioute, who has been in Iran since 1923 and who heads the American Mission School (Presbyterian) in Teheran.

President Roosevelt was responsible for issuance of a Boy Scouts of America charter to this international group of youngsters who represent Iran, Iraq, the USSR, Palestine, Turkey, the United States, India, Lebanon, Czechoslovakia and Sweden, returned to the United States from the historic Teheran conference of December, 1943, he took with him a troop roster and sent the names to Scout headquarters in New York. Two months later the charter was issued.

Cpl. Skiff, son of Lebanese parents, is as enthusiastic about his Scouts in Teheran as he was of those in his native McCluskey, N. D. "The boys are being trained to be leaders," he says. "For after we Americans leave Iran, the troops must stand on their own collective feet. Scouting in Iran is here to stay. Uncle Sam's soldiers, plus the help of American missionaries, made it possible. If it gets a firm hold—and it will—it will spread like fire. We are training boys for this mission now. And when we leave, we must leave behind the principles of real democratic ideals to flourish in the years to come."

Celebration of Scout Week, February 8 to 15, did not go unnoticed in Teheran. A Court of Honor was held in the mission's auditorium, which parents and friends of the Scouts crowded. Skits in English were presented by the boys and 68 merit badges were distributed. On February 12, Lincoln's birthday, a father and son banquet was held.

In the early days numerous difficulties had to be surmounted by the troop, among them procurement of uniforms and a meeting

A huge coal bin in the basement of one of the mission buildings was turned into a permanent meeting room with the aid of some army lumber and paint and GI soap and scrub brushes—gifts from the armed forces.

Today, Teheran Troop 1 has five patrols and Cub Pack 1001, a group of 21 boys from nine to twelve years. Religion is no more a barrier than nationality, since Mohammedans, Protestants, Roman Catholics, Orthodox Catholics (Russian and Armenian), Jews and Koracians stood side by side. Second Marriage

By EVELYN MURRAY CAMPBELL

YESTERDAY: Anne leaves on a short trip to Chicago and that night Carey kisses Cynthia for the first time. They are both shaken by the experience and realize that they are in love. When Anne returns she realizes that what has happened and warns Cynthia that summer romances don't last. But this one will, thinks Cynthia, smiling secretly.

Chapter 5

IT was morning. It was night and noon. It was Time. Letters came from home but Cynthia felt oddly detached from them.

The children's letters—Vera, brief and non-committal, a blank page would have done as well. Edris, vague and reproachful and yearning. Peter, an ill-spelled scrawl about nothing whatever. Ned giving business a brush over and ending with the ternal plea for forgiveness—Cynthia couldn't think why for a moment. The quarrel, as she remembered it faintly, had largely been her own fault.

They were all so far away, spectral figures that didn't belong to the person she was now. They made no claim. They did not call her back. And gradually the thought insinuated that she had given them enough. Twelve years of her life! She did not know or would not see that this was what her love for Carey was teaching her. It was his book and she had read every page and closed the covers.

They didn't talk about the future or their marriage. It was in Cynthia's mind, formed. An inevitable day that would draw nearer and nearer until it was upon her and became the actual present. Carey astonished her one day with a matter of fact question.

"Where do you want to live when we're married?"

A slow hot flush came over her face as she saw the look in his eyes, bare and unashamed and completely possessive, the superior look of the male who asks a question of the "little woman" which he means to answer himself.

But it was more than that. It was lifting the curtain for a split second upon the scene behind the scene. It was meeting the swift moving future face to face and glimpsing dizzying possibilities. She would be a wife again. Carey's wife! There would be all the changes, the differences to meet. She would no longer grasp her own problems; he would have his part in them. But it couldn't be as shattering as it seemed. Her life was made, formed, and he would be a part of it as she would be a part of his.

"Foolish." He took her hand and smoothed the fingers one by one. "People have to live somewhere. You took rather a chance on me, darling. It might have been a trailer camp or a light housekeeping room; that's about what I could afford at the present moment." Her face wore such unbelief that he laughed and kissed her. "But it won't be so bad as that. I haven't got a job at the moment but I'm going to have one in a minute."

She knew vaguely that he was an engineer but she wasn't trained in engineers. It was just a profession that sounded rather glamorous and a favorite quote with growing boys. She knew little about Carey's background too. He had given her the briefest details as her own had been brief. Poor, of course. He'd mostly worked his way through college and it had been a very good one. He'd been to some far off places on jobs and had finished them and put them behind him. She knew there wasn't much money in being an engineer and that was about all of it.

But now and then she had wondered why he was idling here by a Wisconsin lake as if his joblessness didn't weigh at all upon his mind. No, she wouldn't think of that. It was unkind, disloyal. There was a reason; he would tell her some day. He told her now.

"There's a plane plant at a place called Burbank in California." He laughed, this time at her astonishment. "That's where my job will be. A mechanical engineer. A friend of mine—a buddy

—is out there now and he pulled for me. It won't be long before the good old grind begins again." He flexed his sinewy brown fingers as if he wanted nothing better. "Is it a surprise for you, Cynthia? You won't have to pull up stakes." That meant going away somewhere to live. Even with Carey she couldn't quite visualize that.

It was his turn to be astonished. "What on earth are you talking about, Cynthia? I'm an engineer. I help to build motors. You don't pick your job when you do that. Your job picks you."

She was wise enough to let that pass.

"Oh, Carey, we can live at home—at my house. Wait until you see it. It's so lovely." Nostalgia came upon her and in a moment she saw every stone, every flower.

"Burbank isn't far away." But her eagerness died to a whisper.

So was his frown; the first time his frown had come between them. "That's what you want, Cynthia? But at first—I thought just at first—Some of the fellows I know well—are living near the plant, sort of camping out in little places while the job gets going. They're mostly married and it's easier to be on the spot."

He looked uncertain as if he wasn't sure of where they were going with this sort of talk. She was appalled. She knew what Burbank was like and the "little places" too. She had seen them driving through with Ned to look at the vast air plants. Barracks little houses, horrid, cramped, staring at a blazing sun that never seemed to go down. Willing heat in summer, Rain—rain—in winter.

"Oh, Carey, I couldn't. I'm used to the sea. And there is my own business. I couldn't live like that and do what I have to do!"

He said nothing, just looking at her in an inscrutable way before he brushed the conversation, argument, whatever it was, aside.

"All that will take care of itself," he said.

cache in the rocks and she knew for the first time that he had slept on the island sometimes. It was all in the same casual way as if having her there was the end of a long day. There were some stores left from breakfast and they ate with paper plates on their knees and the fire scorching their faces. But now it was not fun; it was life.

Then suddenly it was night in the way night comes to a lake in the trees. The tarpaulin was taut over their heads and the fire went to embers at their feet.

Carey held her tightly in his arms and she hid her face in the pine pillow and presently they slept.

CYNTHIA wore a blue handkerchief tied peasant fashion under her chin and her nose felt like a ripe plum and probably looked worse, she thought ruefully. Carey needed a shave and everything that went with it. The car was white with dust inside and out and suddenly the super heated air was touched by the salt chill of the ocean and there it was before them, glimmering blue and white capped through the trees.

She leaned forward, breathless. "We're home, Carey, Turn at the third corner from this."

It had been gay adventure driving back from the lake. The long, grilling days with heat and dust and grinding upgrades; nights at roadside camps, meals snatched anywhere, any time, had been the sum total of their return but it was all in the dream where Cynthia lived.

Carey took it for granted that she would accept hardship and like it—as Vera would have taken it, she thought. He made nothing of her scorched skin and aching back, as if those things would vanish with a night of sleep. So she took it and the joy of being his companion more than paid the price of the cross country trip in July.

But with the first sea breeze and the sight of her house, the submerged Cynthia came into being and her heart leaped and climbed remorselessly into her throat. The moment she had refused to face was facing her now. "Carey!" she was panicky, wanting to clutch at him and ashamed in the peaceful sunlight. "I've been wrong. I should have told them—"

He turned into the driveway behind another bright little car that usurped the middle of it arrogantly. His slacks were grease daubed from a bout with the motor, he was sunburned and looked like a Roman. "Why?"

That was Carey's way. He could never see why people should interfere with one another. When she had spoken of "surprising" her family he had merely grinned and let it go without argument.

It was already too late to regret the surprise. Peter was on the lawn, staring blankly at the strange car, not recognizing his mother as a gypsy but dimly sensing her through the disguise. He began yelping for Maud, for Edris.

Cynthia's choking heart turned over and was in her breast again. She tumbled out of the car before it stopped and ran to him.

"Peter! It's mother. Don't you know me?"

Then the house spilled them all, like figures out of a box. They came by french windows and through doors. There had never been so many. And yet, it was only her own, her family.

Mother! Mother! They surrounded her, drawing her back to them, claiming her. Carey was somewhere but outside the group. No, he was only getting the luggage out of the compartment, her bags and his own. Why did she feel like this? Chester, who drove the bright little car, was there, close to Vera and after a moment he went to help and then they were all inside the dim, gray green living room with the rose glow of late afternoon warming it.

"Mother, why didn't you let us know?"

"Mother, did you drive all the way home?"

And Edris, the fastidious. "Mother, you're dirty." As if this couldn't happen to Cynthia.

It was the moment. Nobody looked at Carey but they knew about him. It was in their faces, slowly retreating, growing rigid, stiffening against him.

Many Scouts Have Earned Advancements

The advancement of one Scout to Second Class and seven Scouts earned thirteen merit badges in recent Troop boards of review, reports of which arrived at the Scout office this morning.

Scout Roscoe Knapp of the Pleasant Grange Troop No. 5 has been recommended for advancement to the rank of Second Class; Curtis Lawson, pathfinding merit badge; and Richard Blume, first aid, pathfinding and Senior Patrol Leader. The members of the Board of Review were C. T. Wilcox, C. W. Schumann, Otto Gnage, Fritz Rieder, Nestore Bartholomew, and Walter A. Schumann, Scoutmaster.

At the Board of Review of Troop No. 14, Russell M. E. church, the following Scouts appeared for Merit Badge achievement: Clair Cable, hog and pork production and poultry keeping; Chas. Cable, hog and pork production and poultry keeping; Rodger Werner, safety, and personal health; Arden Pangborn, safety and personal health; and James Nesmith, cycling and personal health. Members of the Board of Review were Harry Pearson, Ellis Wheelock, E. F. Branstrom, Dennis Kingsley and Gerry A. Briggs, Scoutmaster.

The public recognition of these achievements will be made at the Council Court of Honor Ceremonial to be held Friday evening, March 23 at the Court House.

Urge Farmers To Use Care Culling Flocks

The nation's 1945 egg requirements can be met by normal production from the hens on farms January 1, 1945. Poultry producers are being encouraged to cull normally, but not excessively, to keep up laying efficiency. The production of chicks for flock replacement should be about the same as last year. However, growers are being urged to secure chicks earlier so as to have more pullets ready for fall and winter laying.

Any chicks raised and not needed for flock replacements will find a ready market for meat. Broilers and roasters are needed to add to the meat supply during the coming year. Producers with brooder space not needed for laying flock replacements are urged to use the extra space for broilers and roasters. The resulting addition to the meat supply will come during the season's low-point for other meats.

The general feed picture indicates that the supply of corn and oats, important ingredients of mixed feeds, will be about one-fourth greater than in 1944. For the country as a whole there is expected to be about 14 percent less livestock, mainly hogs and poultry, than last year. With prospects of considerably more feed per animal unit there is no need this year to limit poultry or egg production in order to conserve national feed supplies.

Glass wool bats help win the big game!

"Somewhere at sea," a PT boat roars past an aircraft carrier. The planes are Navy Dauntless Dive bombers. (Official U. S. Navy photograph.)

Bombers, fighter planes, PT boats are powered by 100-octane gasoline. It's well known that gasoline of this rating can be made from oil of low sulfur content. But urgent demands for the gas were even greater than enormous supplies of the oil.

Atlantic supplied an answer... with the help of the glass wool that comes in "bats." As a result, high sulfur content of certain crude oils no longer limits production of 100-octane combat gas.

At the start, Atlantic's scientists jumped in to produce 91-octane fuel from these oils. That was when unheard-of quantities of such gasoline suddenly were demanded for our aviation training program. Battling against time, Atlantic engineers whipped problem after problem in pilot plant run—finally got 91-octane from high sulfur oils.

With the switch to full-scale operation in the refinery, new "bugs" popped up. Carbon particles plugged the top of the huge catalyst bed, retarding the flow of vapors.

Here's where Atlantic researchers "broke up the game" with glass wool bats. The glass wool caught the carbon... licked the last trouble in volume production under the new process. So successful is the process that today it's being used to produce 100-octane fighting fuel.

That's typical Atlantic research. Helping win the war today... it will bring you even finer petroleum products for peacetime use tomorrow.

TAXES ROLLING IN
Taxpayers in the 23-county area served by the Collector of Internal Revenue office of Pittsburgh have paid $345,077,064.63 on 1944 incomes, compared to a total tax collection of $208,299,917.72 for 1943. Collector Stanley Granger said in addition to this 50 percent increase an estimated $8,400,000 in tax liabilities is still due from persons who filed withholding receipts from employers. These persons will be billed later by the department, he added, and payments must be made within 30 days after receipt of the bill. Deadline for filing the withholding receipts is midnight tonight.

TO HALT OVERCHARGES
The Office of Price Administration intends to put a stop to overcharges for repairs on household appliances, automobiles and farm machinery. Stating that it has long been receiving complaints of "exorbitant" repair charges, particularly for household appliances, the agency today authorized its regional offices to take steps to correct the situation. Beginning March 19, Regional OPA offices may require repair shops charging an hourly rate to do two things: (1) give customers detailed bills on the exact amount of time and materials used; and (2) keep detailed time records themselves. Repair prices are frozen at the highest March, 1942, levels.

This morning your reporter, at just about dawn, awoke—like Ben Adhem—from a deep dream of peace. (Many good folks have been having a deep dream of peace these days. Maybe that's why our war efforts have shown a tendency, sometimes, to falter.)

As he lay there contemplating the burnished splendor of the rising sun (and the tarnished splendor of the Rising Sun), certain thoughts flickered idly through his head, pleasant fancies of flimsy gossamer and little consequence. But suddenly, out of the caves of memory, a big, solid thought came pushing its way, elbowing aside the bashful whimsies and the sprite-like images. A big, solid thought of what lay ahead of us this week—the March 21 paper collection.

Your reporter thought immediately of that vital personality, W. T. Corbett, chairman of the County Salvage Committee, and his mighty desire to see Warren score a real triumph. He thought, "What can I do to help Mr. Corbett put it across?" All of a sudden your reporter was in the midst of a lively dialogue with Mr. Corbett, imaginary, it is true (most dialogues with Mr. Corbett are not imaginary), but none the less instructive. He passes it on to you, verbatim:

MR. CORBETT: Yes, sir! This time we've got to put it over! There are five thousand Warren county boys in the services, and we can't let them down.

YOUR REPORTER: How've we been doing lately, in the paper line?

MR. C.: Not well. In February we shipped only one-half our quota of paper.

Y. R.: Isn't that pretty bad?

MR. C., grimly: It's pretty bad for the country—when every ounce is needed.

Y. R.: Can we do better this month?

MR. C.: If we can't, we better shut up shop.

Y. R.: What about this Wednesday, March 21, collection?

MR. C.: We can load 15 cars of paper—213 tons—in March

—if our Wednesday pickup goes over.

Y. R.: What's the dope?

MR. C.: It will be a curb collection in Warren, Pleasant township, Glade township. In Sheffield, Russell, Youngsville, Tidoute, collections will be held the same day.

Y. R.: Do you want all kinds of paper?

MR. C.: You bet. Newspaper should be tied in one bundle; magazines in a second; cardboard and kraft paper in a third.

Y. R.: Is the need for paper as great as ever?

MR. C.: Greater. The farther and faster our armies advance, the faster the need mounts. It's greater right now than ever before.

Y. R.: Do you think Warren people realize this?

MR. C.: I think they do when they stop to think about it.

Y. R.: But . . .

MR. C.: I don't believe they stop to think about it often enough

Y. R.: They only have one day—tomorrow—to get it ready? Isn't that right?

MR. C.: Right! The paper should be on the curb early Wednesday morning. Every attic, basement and closet should be scoured. There should not be a scrap of paper left in any house in Warren county.

Y. R.: Somehow, I think maybe we'll do it.

MR. C.: Somehow, I have the same idea.

Y. R.: So Wednesday's the day?

MR. C.: Wednesday's the day!

So ended our imaginary dialogue.

If you want to help bridge the shortage of food-stuffs this summer, lead with a spade.

LENTEN SERMONETTE

REV. F. W. SPOPE
Lander Methodist Church

A LENTEN MESSAGE

The Lenten season is here. It is the season of the cross, of love and sacrifice and self-denial. It is also the season of hope. The cross is fruitful like nothing else in life. Every great and good thing comes forth out of suffering. "I sometimes think that never blows the rose red as where some buried Caesar bled." This may be the fancy of a pagan poet, but no one will deny that in this believing that all grace and beauty and life grow out of self-abnegation, this pagan is abreast of the best Christian thought. The Cross of Lent means the dying of what we gladly would see die and the living and flowering of the spiritual in us. The Cross is emblematic of the things that shall be. It gives color to our hope that the world is going to be immeasurably better than it now is, that this old sad world shall one day see "the light that never was on land or sea." There is only one golden age—the one that is still to come. The strongest, finest men, the men most nearly like the poised perfection of Jesus, the purest, most gracious women that the world can know will possess the future.

"You shall not change, but a nobler race of men Shall walk beneath the stars and wonder by the shore.
I cannot guess their glory, but I think the sky and sea

YEARS AGO IN WARREN

Interesting Items Taken From The Warren Evening Times

In 1925

Green carnations and neckties were frequent throughout the city as citizens marked St. Patrick's Day. Many dances and parties were held and school students were the most noticeable observers.

Warren folk will be more brainy in the future if there is any truth about eating of fish forming grey matter. Fish sales have trebled in the last few weeks and many stores are selling the fish.

Miss Dorothy Kottcamp, daughter of YMCA Secretary A. F. Kottcamp and a graduate of the Warren General Hospital 1917 class, is now connected with Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore, where she is a superintendent.

Plans are merrily being perfected for the carnival to be held by the High School Girls' Athletic Association. The Geradimos Restaurant will contribute 1000 lollypops to the affair.

Changes started some time ago in the Smith Shoe Store are rapidly nearing completion and the establishment will soon be open for public inspection. This company has been established for over half a century and is now under new management.

The famed Nameless Five cage team of fifteen years ago will attempt a comeback on the Beatty court when they meet the H. S. Seconds. Of the originals, Boney Keller, Harry Conroy, Nick Wendelboe, Web Sechrist, and probably George Pedow, will be on hand.

Robert E. Leyendecker, of New York City, has taken a lease on the C. A. Cole farm in Pleasant Township to make tests for oil or gas. The tests are core tests, comparatively new methods.

Police Chief George Haehn has issued a warning to dog owners that there are too many canines running on the loose, and that much damage is being done to lawns and gardens.

Mending Keeps Family Clothes in Good Repair—The family supply of knit undergarments will last longer if worn garments are mended and put back into service.

Small holes may be darned but if the holes are large or there is a thin spot around a hole, a patch is a more satisfactory type of mend. For this type of patching, the patch should be as elastic as the garment. Pieces cut from another worn garment of the same kind are best to use.

Trim the hole into one with a neat rounded edge. Cut away thin areas around the hole so the patch won't pull away from it. Cut the patch about a half inch larger all around than the hole which is to be mended. Pin the patch carefully in place with the edges extending evenly beyond the hole and with the ribs matching. With matching thread catch stitch around the edge of the hole keeping the stitches fairly small so they won't catch or pull. Turn to the wrong side of the garment and catch stitch around the patch.

The edge of the patch and hole are not turned under so the finished mend is smooth and soft. The catch stitch allows for stretching during wear so the stitches won't break as they are likely to

Stamp News

THE Vatican City's most recent postal issue marks a departure from the usual theme of stamps of the Papal State. With one exception, previous stamps have featured portraits of Popes, Saints, Vatican buildings, coats of arms and symbolic scenes, but the latest issue, a four-stamp set released late last year to mark the 400th anniversary of the Pontifical Academy of the Virtuosi of the Pantheon, honors four laymen.

Only once before in the 16 years that the Vatican City has been issuing postage stamps have laymen been pictured on the Papal stamps. The 1935 International Juridical Congress commemorative issue pictured Tribonian and Emperor Justinian I on one stamp (Scott's No. 41).

The issue of stamps was one of the first acts of sovereignty performed by the Vatican State after conclusion of the Treaty of the Lateran between the Holy See and Italy Feb. 11, 1929. Since then approximately 125 varied stamps have been issued.

THE aid of stamp collector Franklin D. Roosevelt has been sought by Sen. Wiley of Wisconsin to secure authorization for a series of stamps commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Swiss colony at Glarus, Wisconsin, and the "Birth of the Swiss cheese industry of Wisconsin."

Sen. Wiley said Postmaster General Walker failed to grasp the importance of the event, "thinking it was only a small lo-

do if hand hemming of machine stitching had been used.

Start Early to Train Child to Obey Laws—Regardless of an individual's age, obedience is needed to get along in this world. Even in a democracy one has to obey laws of government and laws of nature.

Some parents overlook this fact in rearing their children, point out Miss Marguerite Little, extension child care specialist of the Pennsylvania State College. Parents may be fearful that any thwarting of a child may result in harmful effects on the child's personality. Indiscriminate free-

cal matter," so he wrote to the President that "the merit of this proposal will be readily apparent, particularly to a philatelist of the long experience and appreciation of yourself."

LIKE President Roosevelt, King George VI of Great Britain is a well-known philatelist, but it is not generally known that the British ruler also chooses the designs of stamps of his Empire.

According to "a philatelic correspondent" of London Calling, British Broadcasting Company's magazine, when it is decided to issue new stamps for any of the Dominions or Colonies, water color designs are sent to the King and he selects those which he considers to be the most suitable. Should he not approve of any particular item, another design is submitted for his inspection.

The "philatelic correspondent" cites as an example of King George's selections of designs the six pence value of the Pitcairn Islands Coronation set for which the view of the ship Bounty was changed at the King's suggestion. He adds "it will indeed be interesting for the ordinary collector to know how many stamps there are of the present reign that are his Majesty's 'second choices'."

King George's collection is mounted in numerous loose-leaf volumes and is continually being added to, both by gifts from various countries of the Empire and by purchases. Sir John Wilson, who was president of the Royal Philatelic Society from 1934 to 1940, has been keeper of the King's philatelic collection since 1938.

RUSSIA has issued two stamps commemorating the 75th anniversary this year of the death of Alexander Herzen, Russian author and publicist, who once was exiled to Siberia (in 1834) for his too liberal political views and eventually published two periodicals in London which were smuggled into Russia. Current reference books relate that Herzen lost influence with his countrymen because he espoused the cause of Poland.

Much of the present juvenile delinquency could be prevented, she says, if parents would make more of an effort to teach children what will be expected of them by the world in which they live.

Blind obedience is not the aim in child training although this sometimes is necessary, such as in dangerous situations. Obedience based on self-control, self-discipline, and self-direction is necessary in a democracy.

Training for this must begin when the child is an infant. A good rule is to intervene in a child's activities when there is likely to be harm to the child him-

TOTAL DESTRUCTION . . . as Illustrated by Cologne

Cologne typifies the fate that has already been met by many German cities and the lot in store for others in the path of the Allied advance. Fourth-largest city in the Reich, the Rhineland capital has been reduced to a pile of rubble and skeletons of buildings by constant Allied air blows and artillery barrages. "City after city" has been systematically shattered," Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reported after a tour of Nazi strongholds taken by the Yanks. Cologne was 60 per cent destroyed, with over 2000 acres laid flat. Duisburg and Hamborn, home of the Thyssen steel works, have been 40 per cent destroyed. Half of Essen, home of the Krupp works, has been leveled. Duesseldorf is 65 per cent ruined, Bochum 83 per cent, and Dortmund 46 per cent.

Never has tire care and conservation been more necessary than NOW. Every citizen or motorist has the personal responsibility of seeing to it that his tires are safe—that they will give every possible mile of travel. The only way that this can be assured is by regular inspection and prompt repairing or recapping. All of the optimistic hopes in regard to new tires fade into gloom with the realization that the Army needs more tires than ever before. These needs are paramount to everything else. Therefore your duty is to see that your tires give new mileage, and tire servicemen are ready to give you their aid.

BEGINNING MONDAY, MARCH 19

"Our soldiers on the German frontier know that the road to Berlin must be traveled on rubber tires. Each soldier is doing his individual part in the greatest tire conservation campaign in history. Army trucks and jeeps in Europe are not turning over their wheels an unnecessary mile. In the back areas and along the fighting fronts, soldiers are recapping tires by the thousands, salvaging precious mileage, making the trucks run longer, hauling more tons of vital ammunition, material and supplies. If we at home are half as realistic as our fighting men, if we work half as hard to save the tires we do have, we will go a long way toward solving this most vexing problem. I urge all workers in war plants to watch their tire pressures, to repair and recap before it's too late."

BREHON SOMERVELL,

EVERY TIRE MUST GIVE EVERY POSSIBLE MILE

The greatest stockpile of rubber is still on the wheels of American motorists. It has been left in your care with the hope that your responsibilities will be fully realized and that you will protect the tires on your car. Only moderate care is necessary—such fundamentals as driving within moderate speed limits — keeping tires properly inflated — having tires repaired at the first sign of a bruise or break — and MOST IMPORTANT — to have your tires recapped when they are worn smooth. Your tire serviceman, who has kept you rolling, will do his share in careful inspection and sound advice based on intimate knowledge of tire ailments and what to do to correct them and give new tire mileage.

According to rationing regulations of the Office of Price Administration the fact that you do not take adequate care of your tires may be considered abuse. Under such conditions, you may be refused new tires even though you may be eligible. Tire care and conservation is YOUR individual responsibility. The need for extra tire care is urgent at this time and "CHECK-YOUR-TIRE WEEK" has the full indorsement of the Office of Price Administration and other Government agencies which are interested in conserving our home supply so that the needs of the armed forces can fully be met. Get every possible mile out of your tire by regular inspection and heeding the advice of the firms listed below who know real tire conservation.

Have Your TIRES Inspected

Thousands of truck tires are ruined each day on the fighting fronts. Rubber-tired mobile guns, ammunition and supply trucks, kitchen equipment—hundreds of different kinds of trucks are subject to heavy bombardment, travel over shell-pocked roads — all of which reduces the life of the tire. Extreme care must be given to truck tires on the home front. There are not enough to meet the demand. The answer is to balance loads, properly match duals and have repairs made at the first indication of a bruise or break. Recapping will give adequate safe mileage at low cost per mile. It's the answer to "Keep Rolling."

Doris M. Peterson
Becomes the Bride
Of Sargent Tillard

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Peterson, 9 Water street, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 4 p. m. Saturday, when their daughter, Miss Doris M. Peterson, became the bride of T. Sgt. Irvin G. Tillard, of Fort Knox, Ky., son of Mrs. E. K. Tillard, Columbus Junction, Iowa.

Sixty-five guests witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Leon T. Ticknor, of Union City, before a background of palms and ferns arranged in one corner of the living room.

The bride wore a two piece dress of aqua, with accessories of black and white and corsage of gardenias. Her only attendant was Ann Tillard, of Chicago, sister of the bridegroom and former faculty member at the Hoff Business College here. Her one piece frock was of ashes of roses, with matching flower hat and corsage of Tallis-man roses. Milton A. Peterson, brother of the bride, was best man for Sgt. Tillard.

A reception followed immediately at the YWCA activities building, where a long table was attractively done in white spring flowers and candles and a miniature bride couple topped the pretty wedding cake.

Guests included the following from out of town: O. F. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Litten, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wallin, Joyce Wallin, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Janowsky, Jamestown, N. Y.; Lenora and Carolyn Carlson, Lakewood, N. Y.; Dorothy Hood and Lloyd Hanna, Buffalo, N. Y.; Gladys Taylor, Sharon; Mrs. Leon H. Ticknor, Union City.

Following a short wedding trip, Mrs. Tillard will continue her employment in the office of the Pennsylvania Gas Company here and Sgt. Tillard will return to Fort Knox, where he was recently assigned following 30 months service in India.

Since announcement of her approaching marriage was made at a lovely party given by her mother, the bride-elect has been honored with many affairs, the following having been hostesses: Mrs. Melvin Thomas and Mrs. E. W. Williams; Mrs. O. F. Peterson and Lenora Carlson; Eunice Alexander, Edith Offerle, Florence Shawkey; Mrs. Charles Jones; Elizabeth L. Peterson; members of her bride club; Mrs. Carlton Kurz; Mrs. Harold Flowers and Mrs. G. W. Irwin. Out of town guests and the family were entertained at luncheon Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Peterson, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, at their home on West Third avenue.

A petition bearing the signatures of several hundred Sheffield citizens petitioning the court to have the township supervisors open and construct a road from a point in Center street, near the Pennsylvania gas company office to Horton avenue was favorably acted upon by Judge Allison D. Wade after going over the report of the viewers, who visited the scene and found the project to be badly needed.

Many of the older residents of Sheffield well remember when a road did exist at this point when the tanning business was in its prime, but when that industry closed down the tanning company abandoned the road, but the public continued to use it as a short cut, but vehicles were unable to get through and the bridge at the approach to the road is in very bad condition and is not safe for the large number of children who use it daily in going to and from high school.

There is no question but what the opening and construction of the road will be of great benefit to all residents of the township and will do much to improve that section of the village. Much credit for bringing the project to a successful culmination is due to the work of circulating the petition and other details by Carl J. Anderson, Mike Papavera and R. E. Farnsworth.

8 Teams Remain As Quarter-Finals Begin In Invitation Tournament At YMCA Tonite

The Invitational Tournament at the YMCA was reduced to eight competitors Friday night, three local teams being knocked out of the race. The local Sylvaniaans scored a rough, 56-50, win over the newly-formed Warren Puritans in the first contest, the Bradford YMCA quint toppled Blomquists in the second, 56-33, and Jamestown succeeded in upsetting the National Forge aggregation, 32-27.

Tonight's battles bring together the Emporium Sylvania and Jamestown Fashion Clothes at 7:30 and Struthers Wells and the Bradford YMCA in the nightcap at 8:30 o'clock.

Sylvania had little trouble in downing the Puritans, although the game was a rough-and-tumble affair. Paced by Billy Massa, the winners went ahead in the opening period to hold an 18-8 first quarter lead. The Puritans strengthened in the second stanza, but Sylvania managed to hold their lead, and left the court at half-time with the score 33-19.

The Green and White continued to dominate the play in the third quarter, and outpointed the youths, 10-5, to retain their lead, 43-24. The Puritans went wild in the final stanza, and marked up 26 points to the Sylvaniaans' 13. Dave Crocker, member of this year's Dragon second crew, led the way as the Puritans moved within eight points of the leaders. Crocker dumped in 10 field goals. Poor shooting might have won the game for the Puritans, who made but 6 out of 17 tries, while the winners made good on 8 out of 12.

As the evening progressed, the games became increasingly tougher. Blomquists put up a spirited battle in their meeting with the tough Bradford crew in the first two periods, but the out-of-town aggregation moved ahead in the third period to maintain a last period win. The Bloms went ahead, 12-2 in the opening quarter, but Bradford closed the lead

The Struthers Wells fems clinched a position in the YWCA Girls' league playoffs Friday night by brushing the Sylvania I crew, 51-14, while Thomas Coupling scored an easy 41-16 victory over Sylvania II.

The playoffs, which bring together the National Forge, first hall winners and the Wells' crew, will be staged on Wednesday, March 21, Friday, March 23, and if necessary, Tuesday, March 27. The City victor will be decided by the winner of two out of three contests.

Thomas Coupling and the New Process sextet will meet in the prelude to the opening game, and Sylvania I will battle its sister crew, Sylvania II, in the Friday night affair. Preliminary games are slated for 7:30 and the play-off affairs at 8:30. Tickets will go on sale this week.

Moll paved the Struthers quint to its decisive victory, jumping in 21 points, followed by Joy and Hathaway with 16 and 14, respectively. Seymour was high for Sylvania I with 10 and Lindquist had 4 markers.

In the other battle, Smith went wild to drop in a total of 29 points to lead Thomas, while Dodge accounted for 6, Danielson for 4, and Itel for 2. For Sylvania II, Hall and Gillett each totaled six, and Covell collected 4.

NEW GLIDER

The CG-15A, a new glider capable of carrying 16 fully equipped fighting men including the pilot and co-pilot, or an alternate load of 4000 pounds of rolling mechanized equipment, has been developed after 3½ years of work by the Engineering Division of the Air Technical Service Command.

The CG-15A's strongly reinforced nose section, clipped wings and improved landing gear shock absorbing characteristics allow this new glider to carry an increased load of 500 pounds and allows towing speed of 18 miles per hour, as well as providing better crash protection for the glider's crew.

Buy War Bonds Now

This month thousands of Americans will receive millions of Extra dollars

In March, 1935, thousands of Americans invested in the new U. S. "Baby Bonds."

These Bonds later became the United States War Bonds you buy today.

In March, 1945, this month, these thousands of Americans will receive a total of over $36,000,000... the full maturity value of those Bonds.

People of foresight, these thousands of Americans. People who can recognize the best bargain in the world, too... one which pays back $4 for every $3 they invested in these Bonds.

But above all, people with a plentiful amount of common sense, who realized that in order to reap the fullest harvest from their investment they must wait until their Bonds matured before cashing them in.

They realized that to cash them in before their time was like throwing good money away—money that was coming to them only if they

held on to their investment.

That's something for you to think about whenever you are sorely tempted to cash in one of your Bonds before maturity date. You reduce the size of that fat nest egg. You toss away something which can play a big part in your future.

So, when you buy your Bonds, stick 'em away in a safe place... and forget about 'em until their time has come. It pays off in the long run!

KEEP FAITH WITH OUR FIGHTERS...BUY WAR BONDS FOR KEEPS!

MRS. FRANK A. BILEY

Word has been received here that Lula E. Dawson Biley, wife of Attorney Frank A. Biley, of Erie, died at her home Friday morning after a long illness. She suffered a paralytic stroke on November 12 and never recovered from the shock.

Born August 6, 1875, in Millers-ton, Beaver county, she was a daughter of the late Richard P. Dawson, mayor and wholesale grocer of Corry, and of the late Alina Hall Dawson. Her brother, R. G. Dawson, of Warren, preceded her husband in death in 1941. Besides her husband and a son, F. Dawson Biley, she leaves a daughter, Mrs. G. M. Olman, of Cheswick, Pa.; three grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Dawson Wooster, of Warren.

Services in her memory will be held privately and interment will be at the convenience of the family.

Russians Gain In Offensive In Hungary

Reduction of the German garrison at Kolberg was in line with the pattern of recent Russian strategy—mopping up the "Kessels," a German word applied to stubbornly resisting pockets of troops.

Along the Baltic several "Kessels" still remain, including Danzig and Gdynia on the south and west shores of Danzig Bay and the coastal towns of Braunsberg and Heiligenberg, further to the east.

Corydon Joins In Sorrow Felt In Lad's Death

Corydon, March 16.—The following from the Bradford Era will be of interest to the many local friends of the late Pfc. John M. Cable, of Bradford, well known here, and whose parents maintain a summer home in Corydon, the community being saddened by the boy's untimely passing:

Mr. and Mrs. Gustine Cable, 225 Congress street, last night received a telegram from the War Department which notified them of the death of their son, Pfc. John M. Cable, United States Army, who was killed in action in Germany on March 4th.

Pfc. Cable, who was inducted into the army while he was a sophomore at the University of Tulsa, Okla., where he was a member of the college reserves, received his basic training at Camp Maxey, Texas, where he was transferred from Fort Sill, Okla. From Camp Maxey, Pfc. Cable and 70 other University of Tulsa students were sent to Ohio State University where they took a course in civil engineering.

After completing the course he was sent to Camp Swift, Texas, and then to Fort Dix, N. J. He was sent overseas in the latter part of September, 1944, and landed at Cherbourg, France. Attached to an infantry division of the Ninth Army, he saw action in France, Holland, Belgium and Germany. Pfc. Cable, who was born in Bradford, was a graduate of Bradford Senior High School.

Through such experiences a valuable lesson is learned. Seeing that routine habits conducive to health are carried out is an example of a time when parents are entirely responsible.

Adult control gradually can be lessened as experience, self-discipline, and reason take hold in the child, states Miss Little. This giving up of outside authority takes place slowly and only a step at a time in the growth of the child.

Canned Tomatoes Good Source of Vitamin C.—Lucky is the homemaker who has a good supply of canned tomatoes on hand, for they may be served at any meal during and in many different ways.

Start the day with a glass of tomato juice for breakfast. It gives that certain zest a breakfast needs to appeal to the family. If you are out of tomato juice, strain canned tomatoes. Serve the juice plain or season with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice if desired.

Cream of tomato soup, macaroni and tomatoes and cheese, rice and tomatoes, lima beans and tomato casserole, and tomato rammit are hearty dishes that may be served for lunch or supper. To make cream of tomato soup without curdling, use the following method: Measure out half as much tomatoes as milk. Add to the tomatoes a slice of onion, a teaspoon of butter, and salt and pepper to taste. Just before ready to serve, add the cold tomatoes and seasoning to the milk, quickly bring to the simmering point and serve at once.

Tomatoes are a good source of vitamin C which helps keep the mouth and gums in a healthy condition, helps build strong teeth, and helps build up resistance to infections. Because vitamin C cannot be stored in the body, a good source of this vitamin is needed every day. A person who does not get enough vitamin C daily may be cross, restless, have a run-down feeling, and his gums swell and bleed.

Try mixing tomatoes and celery occasionally.

WPB Announces Program For Deferment of Key Workers

The new program for certification of deferment requests will enable the War Production Board and other designated sponsoring agencies and military services to certify as to the irreplaceability and indispensability of a limited number of essential employees under 30 years of age who are engaged in war work and essential civilian activities. R. W. DeLancey district manager for the Erie WPB area said today in explaining the procedures for handling deferment requests of registrants 18 through 29.

These certifications will guide local draft boards in passing on requests for deferments by employers whose activities fall under the jurisdiction of the Sponsoring Agency. The procedure will cover all men who were classified as 2A or 2B on January 1, 1945.

"The prospective draft-calls for the next six months will make it possible to provide protection for only a vital 'hard core' of workers under 30 who are engaged in war production and war supporting activities," Mr. DeLancey declared.

Certification as to essentiality of WPB, or some other authorized agency, will assist local draft boards in making decisions by processing the new revised form 2A special. The WPB, as one of several agencies authorized to certify draftable men through 29, will evaluate the irreplaceability and indispensability of workers only if WPB is the proper certifying agency. No individual plant or establishment may submit applications for deferment to more than one certifying agency.

If certifications are required of the WPB district office by employers whose production or service seems to fall under the jurisdiction of some other certifying agency, these employers will be instructed as to the proper certifying agency.

As a basis for determining which registrants, ages 18 through 29, may be certified for occupational deferment, Mr. DeLancey gave the following information which each qualified employer will need to submit to the certifying agency:

A list, in quadruplicate, of all men currently in his employ who were on January 1, 1945, in the age group 18 through 29 and who were on that date classified as 2A or 2B. The list must be arranged in the order of each man's importance to the effective operation of the plant and must include each registrant's name, date of birth, occupation, Selective Service order number, local board number, and present Selective Service Classification.

Only those employers who submit the required information and Form 42A (Special-Revised) in strict accordance with these regulations will be eligible to have their employees certified for deferment by the Sponsoring Agency, Mr. DeLancey emphasized.

Because the Sponsoring Agency will be able to certify only a very

Victory Gardens Turn Spare Time Into Cash

How much money can Victory gardeners save next summer, by harvesting fresh vegetables from their own gardens instead of buying them in the market?

One guide should be the prices actually charged for vegetables last summer. From records of the O.P.A. in Chicago the ceilings in effect last August at this central point were obtained, and are shown in the accompanying table.

Note that tomatoes, in the month when the harvest from Victory gardens was in full flow, cost the consumer 23 cents a pound. An average tomato weighs at least half a pound, and many a Victory gardener apologizes for specimens which scale less than three quarters. And the tomato specialists do not brag about a specimen for size unless it weighs at least two pounds.

Taking the average size, however, a half-pound tomato cost in the market last summer 11 1/2 cents, which is $1.38 a dozen. Suppose it were oranges, which share with the tomato first place on the list of nutritious juice producers. If you had to pay $1.38 a dozen for oranges, but had had only to plant a tree in your own backyard in order to grow a year's supply of juice for very little, what would you do?

Oranges are impossible in Chicago, of course, but tomatoes are easily grown anywhere and any family can harvest an abundance of this costly fruit from a Victory garden.

Other items on the list show equal opportunities. Highest prices are charged for those that take the most labor to cultivate and harvest, and these, it is reported, will be even scarcer next summer, and so may be still higher priced.

When a vegetable gets really scarce it is taken off the ceiling list, and the price is allowed to go as high as the market will stand. With beans valued at 15 1/2 cents a pound, a two-pound egg plant at 26 cents, peppers at 19 1/2 cents, and cucumbers at 7 cents, leisure hours devoted to pleasurable work in the Victory garden will pay high wages next summer.

YANK PLANES GIVE BERLIN NO RESPITE

U. S. Flying Fortresses Rain
3,000 Tons of Bombs On Battered Capital at Rate
Of 50 Tons Minute

By HENRY B. JAMES
London, March 19.—(P)—Only
one of Germany's 20 synthetic oil
plants and but 19 of her 78 coke
ovens are operating and the Allies
are gaining a mounting mastery
over "all forms of movement inside Germany," a high personage
in Britain's war councils told a
specially summoned press conference today.

His statement was made as 1,800
American bombers and fighters hit
jet plane installations and war in-
the RAF again showered 11 and 6-
ton bombs on the Arnberg and

London, March 19.—(P)—RAF
heavy bombers hammered two
vital German communications centers behind the western front last
their 27th straight night raid on Berlin, still smoldering from a record-breaking daylight assault by
1,300 U. S. bombers Sunday.

Targets of the British heavies
were Witten, 26 miles east of Duisburg in the heart of the Ruhr
valley, and Mannheim, about six miles
east of Frankfurt-am-main.

Both blows apparently were
carried out in great strength.
The German radio indicated the

U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberships which hit Berlin Sunday
rained 3,000 tons of bombs on the
battered capital at the crushing
the 34th successive daylight assault upon Germany by American
warplanes.

accompanied the great armada of
heavy bombers.

While the Yank bombers concentrated on railroad yards in the
heart of Berlin and armament
plants in the industrial suburbs,
one group of American Mustangs
range beyond and teamed up with 15 Russian fighter-planes in defending a Russian-held airfield east of the Oder river from Nazi div bombers.

In southwest Germany, U. S.
Tactical Air Command planes
smashed at Germany's Palatinate
with record quantities of ammunition in support of the fast-moving

Food Situation In England Alarming

agitation mounted today with persistent rumors of an impending
food crisis and it appeared that
might force some announcement in councils shortly.

Disclosure by Washington that
the United States planned to cut
lend-lease eat supplies by 87 per cent during the next quarter has
caused a mild sensation through England.

London newspapers pointed out
yesterday that the new allotment
three months, contrasted with 200,000,000 pounds for the present
quarter, would break down the ration of American meat to less than
one ounce per person per week.

Sharon, March 19.—(P)—A
woman was killed on her first air-
plane ride and the pilot was badly
injured when a two-place ship
crashed in a field south of here
yesterday. The victim was Mrs.
Betty Bowman, 22, of Sharon. The
plane was flown by Edward Banas,
26, of Sharon, and started its
flight from Youngstown, Ohio,
municipal port.

American Armies Nearing Junction In Triangle Gap

By JAMES M. LONG
Paris, March 19.—(P)—An estimated 80,000 Germans ran for the Rhine today in a desperate daylight retreat under perfect strafing
weather which turned the northern half of the Bavarian Palatinate
into a slaughter ground and the rich Saarland into a death trap.
Swift tank and infantry columns of the Third and Seventh Armies surged within 15 miles of each other between St. Wendel and the Zweilbrücken areas of the Saarland and within 42 miles of a junction
farther west in the Palatinate.

Tanks shot within 14 miles of Mainz on the bend of the Rhine.
This was the last debacle west of the Rhine and the German First
in their rout.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press War Editor
Tanks of the U. S. Third Army sliced to within 14 miles of the Rhine gateway city of Mainz today, and with advancing Seventh Army
troops deepened wedges threatening a double entrapment of perhaps 80,000 Germans fleeing the great Saarland triangle under punishing aerial strikes.

Americans in the Remagen bridgehead—still expanding slowly,
despite collapse of the Ludendorff bridge—fought on the edge of the plain running north to the Ruhr. In the north, Germans apparently were pulling back from the Holland area north of Nijmegen.

Armored columns of the Third Army thrust to within 22 and 45
miles of junctions with the American Seventh Army in the Saar triangle, and the two armies steadily
were closing these gaps menacing
envelopment of sizeable portions of
battered German divisions.

One push south of Birkenfeld
carried to within 22 miles of Seventh army troops pushing up behind Saarbrücken. A still greater pincer was closing farther east in
the Kaiserslautern area, where Third Army tanks were 45 miles apart.

Third Army tanks had poured
across the Nahe River at Bad
Kreuznach and were 19 miles from Kaiserslautern. Seventh Army
troops, gaining up to half a dozen
miles along a 50-mile front, were
cape center.

Northeast of Bad Kreuznach, the Fourth Armored Division captured
Spremlingen, 14 miles southwest of Mainz, one of the principal escape
routes for Germans in the huge,
dwindling Saar pocket.

Russian forces struck westward
along the Pomeranian coast from
for Stettin and the mouth of the
Oder river. Pressure to topple Stettin, where fighting surged in
outer suburbs, mounted.

the bypassed "kettles" of German
resistance, whose liquidation is a
preliminary to a full-scale assault
on Berlin. Moscow dispatches
linked the great blow from the Oder toward Berlin would begin
in the early spring.

Germans were abandoning tanks,
artillery, and self-propelled guns in
their retreat from the Saarland.
Front dispatches said the Luden-
dorff bridge, which collapsed Sat-

of a main girder by German de-
molitions when it was captured

Pius XII yesterday urged an end
to "the idolatry of absolute nationalism, the pride of race and
blood and the desire for hegemony
in the possession of worldly goods"
as an important step toward lasting peace. The Pontiff, speaking before thousands of Italians massed
in St. Peter's square, directed his appeal particularly "to those who have allowed themselves to be seduced
by the advocates of violence."

Nazis Facing Yank Trap

Thousands of Nazi troops are faced with entrapment following the
lightning push of Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army tanks for more than 35 miles along the Rhine south of Koblenz, and the coordinated drive of the U. S. Seventh Army in the Saar that saw the fall of Bitch for the first time in that city's 200-year history. Above

LaGuardia Order Extending Curfew Stirrs Much Confusion

New York, March 19.—(P)—Tempestuous, swift-moving Mayor F.
H. LaGuardia has changed the three-week-old Byrnes midnight curfew
a full hour later than for the rest of the country, pleasing and puzzling
the city's thousands of amusement places, but drawing a chorus of
disapproval from other metropolitan centers.

Asserting "a rigid 12 o'clock curfew won't work in New York City," LaGuardia made his regular Sunday radio broadcast the vehicle
to announce granting of "an additional hour of tolerance," extending the closing time of all amusement place to 1 a. m.

The order became effective last night. The mayor cautioned: "If
this hour of tolerance is abused,
we will shove it right back. But I don't think it will be abused."

La Guardia blamed the midnight
closing time for producing "too
much rapid drinking," tending to
spur illegal liquor sales and creating troublesome round-midnight
traffic jams as homing theater
goers.

Washington, March 19.—(P)—
Senator Bridges (R-NH)
said today that War Mobilizer
make New York City comply
with the midnight curfew or
lift it for the whole country.

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia
had assumed the responsibility
of permitting the sale of food
and drinks in New York City
until 1 a. m. Other government officials, obviously caught
by surprise, tried to figure out
what, if anything they could
do about La Guardia's "hour of
tolerance."

and night club goers flooded into
midtown streets.
The mayor stipulated the extra
hour should be used to "allow payment of bills and other matters,"
dismissing the city's own recent
midnight-closing law with, "We won't worry about that. We just won't report any violations till 1
o'clock."

There was only annoyance—
criticism and expressions of out-
rage from other cities.

Alleged Submarines In China Sea Area

By the Associated Press
San Francisco, March 19.—(P)—
Tokyo radio reported today a
fleet of Allied submarines has
moved from waters off Indo-China
into the China sea to cut off Japan's tenuous supply lines from her
conquered southern territory.

The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said the subs were trying "to
get near to Japan proper and to
interrupt the Japanese supplies to
the southern regions." Nipponese
planes were sent out to attack the
undersea fleet.

Simultaneously a Japanese imperial communique, also heard by FCC, reported that American carrier planes were continuing their
raids on southwestern Japan today
and claimed without confirmation
that five U. S. warships were sunk,
one damaged and 46 carrier planes
shot down. Previously Tokyo radio
asserted five warships were sunk
and nine damaged.

day in the company of a St. Louis

Dawn Return to Nagoya,
Loose 2500 or More Tons
Of Incendiaries

KYUSHU ALSO VISITED

Guam, March 19.—(P)—Hundreds of carrier planes and probably 350 Superforts—flying an estimated 3000-plus sorties—bombed
Japan with more than 5000 tons of
incendiaries and high explosives
Sunday and Monday.

The giant B-29s, paying a pre-
dawn return visit to Nagoya to
finish up the destruction started
just one week ago, loosed 2500 or
more tons of incendiaries on Japan's sixth largest city and principal airplane manufacturing center.

White-hot pin-points of fire dotted precisely over Nagoya were
"spreading and merging into a
solid mass of flame that pretty
well covered the whole target
great explosions.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz
reported very tersely in a com-
munique that a large carrier task
force bombed Kyushu, southern-
most of the empire's home islands.
Sunday. He said air bases and

In Washington, a 20th Airforce
headquarters communique described the results as ranging from
good to excellent.

Opposition from Jap fighter
planes was "meager and ineffective," the communique said, although anti-aircraft fire was
heavier than in the attack on Na-
goya eight days ago. None of the B-29s was lost as the result of
enemy action.

Radio Tokyo, however, said 1400
carrier planes struck Kyushu both
Sunday and Monday. Domei
(Japanese) news agency reported
that Shikoku island, immediately
northeast of Kyushu, and southern Honsu also were bombed.

Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher,
commander of the world's greatest
carrier force which has blasted the Pacific enemy's planes, ships and
ground installations from Rabaul
to Tokyo itself, presumably commanded the seaborne task force.

The carrier raids, requiring the
fleet to remain overnight within 200 or 250 miles of the Japanese
homeland, constituted the third cruise in five weeks to the imperial covey to come out for battle. That
the Japanese navy did not come
out is further proof of the thoroughness of the defeats allotted the emperor's fleet in the June and October battles of the Philippines.

Torrance State Patient Is Killed

Torrance, March 19.—(P)—"It
is the same old story of over-
crowded conditions and lack of
trained help," declared Dr. Joseph Cameretta today, commenting on
the violent death of Silas Green,
47, patient at Torrance State
Hospital.

Dr. H. Albert MacMurray, West-
moreland county coroner, said
Green died Saturday from a frac-
tured skull, the result of a blow
on the head from a 15-pound sash
weight. The coroner said another
patient, Theodore Holtz, 27, with
whom Green had fought, was being
held in custody pending an inquest.

Dr. Cameretta, assistant to Dr.
John Wiseman, superintendent of the hospital, said "any insane person may become dangerously insane at a second's notice. Trained
help could detect the signs and
notify the doctors in time to prevent explosions such as this."

No Official Tally of Loss Of Life In Bridge Collapse

By HOWARD COWAN and DON WHITEHEAD
With the Americans Across
the Rhine, March 19.—(P)—The Ludendorff bridge, whose central span collapsed Saturday, can be
repaired and it probably will be
lifeline supporting U. S. First
Army operations east of the Rhine
river.

That was the view expressed by U. S. army officials, who declared that loss of the structure,
even temporarily, would not affect the First Army's ability to
hold its bulging bridgehead across
the water barrier.

(The American Broadcasting
station in Europe, in a dispatch
recorded by CBS, said the bridge
has been "almost completely re-

(P)—Japan today admitted
the loss of Iwo Jima.

The government-controlled
Tokyo radio reported the Japanese garrison made their
"last general attack" at mid-
night Saturday "after one
month of bitter resistance."

The broadcast, recorded by
the Federal Communications Commission, said marines had
gradually broken through defense positions and "consequently the communications
have more or less the ten-

London, March 19.—(P)—A new Russian offensive in Hungary has
advanced to the north of Mor, 39
miles west of Budapest and 98
miles from Vienna, the German

Ukrainian army of Marshal Ivan
Konev has plunged forward for
gains of 15 miles or more, reaching the area of Neustadt, less than
three miles from the border of Czechoslovakia, and attacking on
both sides of Neisse, 15 miles
northwest of Neustadt, the Germans said. Neustadt is 57 miles
southeast of besieged Breslau.

In the north Marshal Gregory
Zhukov wheeled Russian divisions
westward from the operations
around captured Kolberg on the Baltic to add impetus to the battle
Oder.

Kolberg, devastated by a 13-day
siege, fell yesterday, a Russian
communique announced, as a
savage struggle mounted from the
eastern suburbs of Stettin to Wol-
lin island in the Oder estuary.

Meanwhile, German forces trapped
southwest of Koenigsberg in East Prussia reeled back into final
defensive positions on the outskirts of Braunsberg and Heilgenb., and other Soviet troops penetrated ahead in southern Slovakia in the low Tatra mountains

Washington, March 19.—(P)—
The senate voted unanimously today for an investigation of food shortages. Proposed in an effort to find a
solution to tightening supplies
of meat and other commodi-
ties, the resolution was approved by voice vote without
debate.

Washington, March 19.—(P)—A
new and tighter squeeze on food,
shoes, tires and manpower may
become even more discomforting
to the home front as the Allies
close in on Berlin and Tokyo.

Government officials frankly predict this today, saying there will
be little if any relief as long as
the two-front war continues. They
added that civilian meat allocations
—cut to the lowest point in ten
years for the April-June quarter—
are not expected to increase much
before both Germany and Japan
are defeated.

A 12 per cent cut in the home
front's meat supply was announced over the weekend as the OPA
slashed April passenger tire quotas 37 per cent below this month's
level.

In another reflection of the war's
quickening pace, Selective Service
said that to retain more young and
irreplaceable men in industry it
will be necessary to draft more
men over 29.

The cut in civilian meat alloca-
tions will give the armed forces
four per cent more in the next
three months than in this quarter.
It means rationing at home at the
rate of 115 pounds a person a
year—30 pounds less than last year
average.

Announcing the meat program,
the Office of War Information also
disclosed that sharp reductions in
lend-lease meat shipments have
been ordered to maintain this
country's supply at what it termed
a safe level.

DRAMATIC RESCUE

London, March 19.—(P)—Four British destroyers, in a daring raid into Arctic Norwegian waters,
have rescued 525 Norwegian patriots from bleak Sorey island where they had been living in caves and huts since last fall, a Norwegian communique disclosed
last night.

MacArthur's Monday communicated said heavy bombers—"continuing the neutralization of Formosa"—dropped 300 tons of explosives on Heito and Okayama air bases and the town of Takoku.

Fires and resulting explosions
were observed among installations and grounded enemy aircraft. Two American planes were lost.

The Baguio raid was in support of 33rd Division Doughboys, whose heavy artillery was battering the supposed headquarters of Japanese Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita
from less than eight miles away.

Headquarters of Yamashita Raided

Don Schuler Announces For Recorder

Donald E. Schuler announced this morning he is a candidate for the office of register and recorder, subject to the decision of the Republican voters of Warren county at the June 19th, 1945, primary. Many of his friends during the past few weeks have urged him to run. As Mr. Schuler has served in the capacity of chief clerk to the Warren county commissioners for the past nine years, his record of public service is favorably known to the people of Warren county. The knowledge and experience gained in county governmental affairs during this period would be of great value both to Mr. Schuler and the public in the conduct of the affairs of the office of register and recorder, because this important office is largely a record office, careful work and supervision are of vital importance.

Donald E. Schuler was born in Warren May 27, 1897, educated in Warren schools and is a member of the Presbyterian church of North Warren, where he has resided for the past fifteen years.

As every one knows, Don Schuler has been generous in the contribution of time and energy to the civic affairs of his community as well as having played an active role in veterans organizations for many years, serving of commander of Chief Cornplanter Post of the American Legion, of which he is now a member, as well as being a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and other veterans organizations.

In World War I, Mr. Schuler served with the American Expeditionary Forces in France, being a member of Company I, 112th Infantry, 28th Division, from May 4th, 1917, to May 6th, 1919, at which time he was honorably discharged from the United States Army.

Mr. Schuler is married and has two daughters, Mrs. Schuler being the former Helen Sherman of North Warren.

This is the first time Mr. Schuler has been a candidate for elective office and he feels his experience and training would enable him to conduct the affairs of the office of register and recorder to the satisfaction of the citizens of Warren county.

Hey, spot the bristles! And long hair, too. That's about the average remark our Ninth Army Yanks make on seeing this statue in the town of Moers, Germany, of Frederick I of Prussia, who was quite well known as a militarist in his time, too.

From Teheran, Iran, comes an army communication that is so different from most of the overseas news releases that many readers will find it of more than usual interest. It reads:

Thousands of miles from home in a land no longer strange to them, five American soldiers are promoting international good will by their sponsorship of a Boy Scout troop that comprises 11 nationalities and a half-dozen religious sects. Fifty-four boys ranging in age from 12 to 18 years make up Troop 1, Teheran, one of the few troops outside the continental limits of the United States and the only one in Iran accredited to the Boy Scouts of America.

Scoutmaster of the English-speaking boys is a North Dakotan, T. S. Samuel F. Skapp, a member of the 32nd Signal Service Company, and one of thousands of Persian Gulf Command troops who have moved nearly 5,000,000 tons of war material to Soviet Russia. Aiding him are five other GIs, a British corporal and two Presbyterian missionaries.

Chairman of the committee is Dr. John Elder, formerly of Tidioute, who has been in Iran since 1923 and who heads the American Mission School (Presbyterian) in Teheran.

President Roosevelt was responsible for issuance of a Boy Scouts of America charter to this international group of youngsters who represent Iran, Iraq, the USSR, Palestine, Turkey, the United Cephalonia, Lebanon, Czechoslovakia and Sweden, returned to the United States from the historic Teheran conference of December, 1943, he took with him a troop roster and sent the names to Scout headquarters in New York. Two months later the charter was issued.

Cpl. Skaff, son of Lebanese parents, is as enthusiastic about his Scouts in Teheran as he was of Scouts in his native McCluskey, N. D. "The boys are being trained to be leaders," he says. "For after we Americans leave Iran, the troops must stand on its own feet. Scouting in Iran is here to stay. Uncle Sam's soldiers, plus the help of American missionaries, made it possible. If it gets a firm hold—and it will—it will spread like fire. We are training boys for this mission now. And when we leave, we must leave behind the principles of real democratic ideals to flourish in the years to come."

Celebration of Scout Week, February 8 to 15, did not go unnoticed in Teheran. A Court of Honor was held in the mission's auditorium, which parents and friends of the Scouts crowded. Skits in English were presented by the boys and 68 merit badges were distributed. On February 12, Lincoln's birthday, a father and son banquet was held.

In the early days numerous difficulties had to be surmounted by the troop, among them procurement of uniforms and a meeting

A huge coal bin in the basement of one of the mission buildings was turned into a permanent meeting room with the aid of some army lumber and paint and GI soap and scrub brushes—gifts from the armed forces.

Today, Teheran Troop 1 has five patrols and Cub Pack 1001, a group of 21 boys from nine to twelve years. Religion is no more a barrier than nationality, since Mohammedans, Protestants, Roman Catholics, Orthodox Catholics (Russian and Armenian), Jews and Korastrians scout side by side. Every boy speaks English, either learning the language at the mission or by association.

Second Marriage

By EVELYN MURRAY CAMPBELL

YESTERDAY: Anne leaves on a short trip to Chicago and that night Carey kisses Cynthia for the first time. They are both shaken by the experience and realize that they are in love. When Anne returns she realizes what has happened and warns Cynthia that summer romances don't last. But this one will, thinks Cynthia, smiling secretly.

Chapter 5

IT was morning, it was night and noon. It was Time. Letters came from home but Cynthia felt oddly detached from them.

The children's letters—Vera, brief and non committal, a blank page would have done as well. Edris, vague and reproachful and yearning. Peter, an ill spelled scrawl about nothing whatever. Ned giving business a brush over and ending with the ternal plea for forgiveness—Cynthia couldn't think why for a moment. The quarrel, as she remembered it faintly, had largely been her own fault.

They were all so far away, spectral figures that didn't belong to the person she was now. They made no claim. They did not call her back. And gradually the thought insinuated that she had given them enough. Twelve years of her life! She did not know or would not see that this was what her love for Carey was teaching her. It was his book and she had read every page and closed the covers.

They didn't talk about the future or their marriage. It was in Cynthia's mind, formed. An inevitable day that would draw nearer and nearer until it was upon her and became the actual present. Carey astonished her one day with a matter of fact question.

A slow hot flush came over her face as she saw the look in his eyes, bare and unashamed and completely possessive. The superior look of the male who asks a question of the "little woman" which he means to answer himself.

But it was more than that. It was lifting the curtain for a split

second upon the scene behind the scene. It was meeting the swift moving future face to face and glimpsing dizzying possibilities. She would be a wife again—Carey's wife! There would be all the changes, the differences to meet. She would no longer grasp her own problems; he would have his part in them. But it couldn't be as shattering as it seemed. Her life was made, formed, and he would be a part of it as she would be a part of his.

"Foolish." He took her hand and smoothed the fingers one by one. "People don't live some where. You took rather a chance on me, darling. It might have been a trailer camp or a light housekeeping room; that's about what I could afford at the present moment." Her face wore such unbelief that he laughed and kissed her. "But it won't be so bad as that. I haven't got a job at the moment but I'm going to have one any minute."

She knew vaguely that he was an engineer but she wasn't trained in engineers. It was just a profession that sounded rather glamorous and a favorite quote with growing boys. She knew little about Carey's background too. He had given her the briefest details as her own had been brief. Poor, of course. He'd mostly worked his way through college and it had been a very good one. He'd been to some far off places on jobs and had finished them and put them behind him. She knew there wasn't much money in being an engineer and that was about all of it.

But now and then she had wondered why he was idling here by a Wisconsin lake as if his joblessness didn't weigh at all upon his mind. No, she wouldn't think of that. It was unkind, disloyal. There was a reason; he would tell her some day. He told her now.

"There's a plane plant at a place called Burbank in California." He laughed, this time at her astonishment. "That's where my job will be. Aeronautical engineer. A friend of mine—a buddy

—is out there now and he pulled for me. It won't be long before the good old grind begins again." He flexed his sinewy brown fingers as if he wanted nothing better. "Is it a surprise for you, Cynthia? You won't have to pull up stakes." That meant going away somewhere to live. Even with Carey she couldn't quite visualize that.

It was his turn to be astonished. "What on earth are you talking about, Cynthia? I'm an engineer. I help to build motors. You don't pick your job when you do that. Your job picks you."

She was wise enough to let that pass. "Oh, Carey, we can live at home—at my house. Wait until you see it. It's so lovely." Nostalgia came upon her and in a moment she saw every stone, every flower. "Burbank isn't far away." But her eagerness died to a whisper.

So was his frown; the first time his frown had come between them. "That's what you want, Cynthia? But at first—I thought just at first—Some of the fellows I know well—are living near the plant, sort of camping out in little places while the job gets going. They're mostly married and it's easier to be on the spot—"

He looked uncertain as if he wasn't sure of where they were going with this sort of talk. She was appalled. She knew what Burbank was like and the "little places" too. She had seen them driving through with Ned to look at the vast air plants. Barracks, little houses, horrid, cramped, staring at a blazing sun that never seemed to go down. Wilting heat in summer. Rain—rain—rain in winter.

"Oh, Carey, I couldn't. I'm used to the sea. And there is my own business. I couldn't live like that and do what I have to do!"

He said nothing, just looking at her in an inscrutable way before he brushed the conversation, argument, whatever it was, aside.

"All that will take care of itself," he said.

Many Scouts Have Earned Advancements

The advancement of one Scout to Second Class and seven Scouts earned thirteen merit badges in recent Troop boards of review, reports of which arrived at the Scout office this morning.

Scout Roscoe Knapp of the Pleasant Grange Troop No. 5 has been recommended for advancement to the rank of Second Class; Curtis Lawson, pathfinding merit badge; and Richard Blume, first aid, pathfinding and Senior Patrol Leader. The members of the Board of Review were C. T. Wilcox, C. W. Schumann, Otto Gnage, Fritz Rieder, Nestore Bartholomew, and Walter A. Schumann, Scoutmaster.

At the Board of Review of Troop No. 14, Russell M. E. church, the following Scouts appeared for Merit Badge achievement: Clair Cable, hog and pork production and poultry keeping; Chas. Cable, hog and pork production and poultry keeping; Rodger Werner, safety, and personal health; Arden Pangborn, safety and personal health; and James Nesmith, cycling and personal health. Members of the Board of Review were Harry Pearson, Ellis Wheelock, E. F. Branstrom, Dennis Kingsley and Gerry A. Briggs, Scoutmaster.

The public recognition of these achievements will be made at the Council Court of Honor Ceremonial to be held Friday evening, March 23 at the Court House.

The nation's 1945 egg requirements can be met by normal production from the hens on farms January 1, 1945. Poultry producers are being encouraged to cull normally, but not excessively, to keep up laying efficiency. The production of chicks for flock replacement should be about the same as last year. However, growers are being urged to secure chicks earlier so as to have more pullets ready for fall and winter laying.

Any chicks raised and not needed for flock replacements will find a ready market for meat. Broilers and roasters are needed to add to the meat supply during the coming year. Producers with brooder space not needed for laying flock replacements are urged to use the extra space for broilers and roasters. The resulting addition to the meat supply will come during the season's low-point for other meats.

The general feed picture indicates that the supply of corn and oats, important ingredients of mixed feeds, will be about one-fourth greater than in 1944. For the country as a whole there is expected to be about 14 percent less livestock, mainly hogs and poultry, than last year. With prospects of considerably more feed per animal unit there is no need this year to limit poultry or egg production in order to conserve national feed supplies.

Glass wool bats help win the big game!

"Somewhere at sea," a PT boat roars past an aircraft carrier. The planes are Navy Dauntless Dive bombers. (Official U. S. Navy photograph.)

Bombers, fighter planes, PT boats are powered by 100-octane gasoline. It's well known that gasoline of this rating can be made from oil of low sulfur content. But urgent demands for the gas were even greater than enormous supplies of the oil.

Atlantic supplied an answer . . . with the help of the glass wool that comes in "bats." As a result, high sulfur content of certain crude oils no longer limits production of 100-octane combat gas.

At the start, Atlantic's scientists jumped in to produce 91-octane fuel from these oils. That was when unheard-of quantities of such gasoline suddenly were demanded for our aviation training program. Battling against time, Atlantic engineers whipped problem after problem in pilot plant runs—finally got 91-octane from high sulfur oils.

With the switch to full-scale operation in the refinery, new "bugs" popped up. Carbon particles plugged the top of the huge catalyst bed, retarding the flow of vapors.

Here's where Atlantic researchers "broke up the game" with glass wool bats. The glass wool caught the carbon . . . licked the last trouble in volume production under the new process. So successful is the process that today it's being used to produce 100-octane fighting fuel.

That's typical Atlantic research. Helping win the war today . . . it will bring you even finer petroleum products for peacetime use tomorrow.

TAXES ROLLING IN

Taxpayers in the 23-county area served by the Collector of Internal Revenue office of Pittsburgh have paid $345,077,064.63 on 1944 incomes, compared to a total tax collection of $208,299,917.72 for 1943. Collector Stanley Granger said in addition to this 50 percent increase an estimated $8,400,000 in tax liabilities is still due from persons who filed withholding receipts from employers. These persons will be billed later by the department, he added, and payments must be made within 30 days after receipt of the bill. Deadline for filing the withholding receipts is midnight tonight.

The Office of Price Administration intends to put a stop to overcharges for repairs on household appliances, automobiles and farm machinery. Stating that it has long been receiving complaints of "exorbitant" repair charges, particularly for household appliances, the agency today authorized its regional offices to take steps to correct the situation. Beginning March 19, Regional OPA offices may require repair shops charging an hourly rate to do two things: (1) give customers detailed bills on the exact amount of time and materials used; and (2) keep detailed time records themselves. Repair prices are frozen at the highest March, 1942, levels.

This morning your reporter, at just about dawn, awoke—like Ben Adhem—from a deep dream of peace. (Many good folks have been having a deep dream of peace these days. Maybe that's why our war efforts have shown a tendency, sometimes, to falter.)

As he lay there contemplating the burnished splendor of the rising sun (and the tarnished splendor of the Rising Sun), certain thoughts flickered idly through his head, pleasant fancies of flimsy gossamer and little consequence. But suddenly, out of the caves of memory, a big, solid thought came pushing its way, elbowing aside the bashful whimsies and the sprite-like images. A big, solid thought of what lay ahead of us this week—the March 21 paper collection.

Your reporter thought immediately of that vital personality, W. T. Corbett, chairman of the County Salvage Committee, and his mighty desire to see Warren score a real triumph. He thought, "What can I do to help Mr. Corbett put it across?" All of a sudden your reporter was in the midst of a lively dialogue with Mr. Corbett, imaginary, it is true (most dialogues with Mr. Corbett are not imaginary), but none the less instructive. He passes it on to you, verbatim:

MR. CORBETT: Yes, sir! This time we've got to put it over! There are five thousand Warren county boys in the services, and we can't let them down.

YOUR REPORTER: How've we been doing lately, in the paper line?

MR. C.: Not well. In February we shipped only one-half our quota of paper.

Y. R.: Isn't that pretty bad?

MR. C., grimly: It's pretty bad for the country—when every ounce is needed.

Y. R.: Can we do better this month?

MR. C.: If we can't, we better shut up shop.

Y. R.: What about this Wednesday, March 21, collection?

MR. C.: We can load 15 cars of paper—213 tons—in March—IF our Wednesday pickup goes over.

Y. R.: What's the dope?

MR. C.: It will be a curb collection in Warren, Pleasant township, Glade township. In Sheffield, Russell, Youngsville, Tidoute, collections will be held the same day.

Y. R.: Do you want all kinds of paper?

MR. C.: You bet. Newspaper should be tied in one bundle; magazines in a second; cardboard and kraft paper in a third.

Y. R.: Is the need for paper as great as ever?

MR. C.: Greater. The farther and faster our armies advance, the faster the need mounts. It's greater right now than ever before.

Y. R.: Do you think Warren people realize this?

MR. C.: I think they do when they stop to think about it.

Y. R.: But . . .

MR. C.: I don't believe they stop to think about it often enough.

Y. R.: They only have one day—tomorrow—to get it ready? Isn't that right?

MR. C.: Right! The paper should be on the curb early Wednesday morning. Every attic, basement and closet should be scoured. There should not be a scrap of paper left in any house in Warren county.

Y. R.: Somehow, I think maybe we'll do it.

MR. C.: Somehow, I have the same idea.

Y. R.: So Wednesday's the day?

MR. C.: Wednesday's the day!

LENTEN SERMONETTE

REV. F. W. SVOPE
Lander Methodist Church

A LENTEN MESSAGE

The Lenten season is here. It is the season of the cross, of love and sacrifice and self-denial. It is also the season of hope. The cross is fruitful like nothing else in life. Every great and good thing comes forth out of suffering. "I sometimes think that never blows the rose red as where some buried Caesar bled." This may be the fancy of a pagan poet, but no one will deny that in self-abnegation, this pagan is abreast of what we gladly would see die and the living and flowering of the spiritual in us. The Cross is emblematic of the things that shall be. It gives color to our hope that the world is going to be immeasurably better than it now is, that this old sad world shall one day see "the light that never was on land or sea." There is only one golden age—the one that is still to come. The strongest, finest men, the men most nearly like the poised perfection of Jesus, the purest, most gracious women that the world can know will possess the future.

Shall walk beneath the stars and wonder by the shore.
I cannot guess their glory, but I think the sky and sea

Green carnations and neckties were frequent throughout the city as citizens marked St. Patrick's Day. Many dances and parties were held and school students were the most noticeable observers.

Warren folk will be more brainy in the future if there is any truth about eating of fish forming grey matter. Fish sales have trebled in the last few weeks and many stores are selling the fish.

Changes started some time ago in the Smith Shoe Store are rapidly nearing completion and the establishment will soon be open for public inspection. This company has been established for over half a century and is now under new management.

Mending Keeps Family Clothes in Good Repair—The family supply of knit undergarments via last longer if worn garments are mended and put back into service.

Small holes may be darned but if the holes are large or there is a thin spot around a hole, a patch is a more satisfactory type of mend. For this type of patching, the patch should be as elastic as the garment. Pieces cut from another worn garment of the same kind are best to use.

Trim the hole into one with a neat rounded edge. Cut away thin areas around the hole so the patch won't pull away from it. Cut the patch about a half inch larger all around than the hole which is to be mended. Pin the patch carefully in place with the edges extending evenly beyond the hole and with the ribs matching. With matching thread catch stitch around the edge of the hole keeping the stitches fairly small so they won't catch or pull. Turn to the wrong side of the garment and catch stitch around the patch.

The edge of the patch and hole are not turned under so the finished mend is smooth and soft. The catch stitch allows for stretching during wear so the stitches won't break as they are likely to

THE Vatican City's most recent postal issue marks a departure from the usual theme of stamps of the Papal State. With one exception, previous stamps have featured portraits of Popes, Saints, Vatican buildings, coats of arms and symbolic scenes, but the latest issue, a four-stamp set released late last year to mark the 400th anniversary of the Pontifical Academy of the Virtuosi of the Pantheon, honors four laymen.

Only once before in the 16 years that the Vatican City has been issuing postage stamps have laymen been pictured on the Papal stamps. The 1935 International Juridical Congress commemorative issue pictured Tribonian and Emperor Justinian I on one stamp (Scott's No. 41).

The issue of stamps was one of the first acts of sovereignty performed by the Vatican State after conclusion of the Treaty of the Lateran between the Holy See and Italy Feb. 11, 1929. Since then approximately 125 varied stamps have been issued.

THE aid of stamp collector Franklin D. Roosevelt has been sought by Sen. Wiley of Wisconsin to secure authorization for a series of stamps commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Swiss colony at Glarus, Wisconsin, and the "birth of the Swiss cheese industry of Wisconsin."

Sen. Wiley said Postmaster General Walker failed to grasp the importance of the event, "thinking it was only a small lo-

Start Early to Train Child to Obey Laws—Regardless of an individual's age, obedience is needed to get along in this world. Even in a democracy one has to obey laws of government and laws of nature.

Some parents overlook this fact in rearing their children, points out Miss Marguerite Little, extension child care specialist of the Pennsylvania State College. Parents may be fearful that any thwarting of a child may result in harmful effects on the child's personality. Indiscriminate free-

cal matter," so he wrote to the President that "the merit of this proposal will be readily apparent, particularly to a philatelist of the long experience and appreciation of yourself."

LIKE President Roosevelt, King George VI of Great Britain is a well-known philatelist. But it is not generally known that the British ruler also chooses the designs of stamps of his Empire.

According to "a philatelic correspondent" of London Calling, British Broadcasting Company's magazine, when it is decided to issue new stamps for any of the Dominions or Colonies, water color designs are sent to the King and he selects those which he considers to be the most suitable. Should he not approve of any particular item, another design is submitted for his inspection.

The "philatelic correspondent" cites as an example of King George's selections of designs the six pence value of the Pitcairn Islands Coronation set for which the view of the ship Bounty was changed at the King's suggestion. He adds "it will indeed be interesting for the ordinary collector to know how many stamps there are of the present reign that are his Majesty's 'second choices.'"

King George's collection is mounted in numerous loose-leaf volumes and is continually being added to, both by gifts from various countries of the Empire and by purchases. Sir John Wilson, who was president of the Royal Philatelic Society from 1934 to 1940, has been keeper of the King's philatelic collection since 1938.

RUSSIA has issued two stamps commemorating the 75th anniversary this year of the death of Alexander Herzen, Russian author and publicist who once was exiled to Siberia (in 1834) for his too liberal political views and eventually published two periodicals in London which were smuggled into Russia. Current reference books relate that Herzen lost influence with his countrymen because he espoused the cause of Poland.

Cologne typifies the fate that has already been met by many German cities and the lot in store for others in the path of the Allied advance. Fourth-largest city in the Reich, the Rhineland capital has been reduced to a pile of rubble and skeletons of buildings by constant Allied air blows and artillery barrages. "City after city" has been systematically shattered," Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reported after a tour of Nazi strongholds taken by the Yanks. Cologne was 60 per cent destroyed, with over 2000 acres laid flat. Duisburg and Hamborn, home of the Thyssen steel works, have been 40 per cent destroyed. Half of Essen, home of the Krupp works, has been leveled. Duesseldorf is 65 per cent ruined, Bochum 83 per cent, and Dortmund 46 per cent.

Never has tire care and conservation been more necessary than NOW. Every citizen or motorist has the personal responsibility of seeing to it that his tires are safe—that they will give every possible mile of travel. The only way that this can be assured is by regular inspection and prompt repairing or recapping. All of the optimistic hopes in regard to new tires fade into gloom with the realization that the Army needs more tires than ever before. These needs are paramount to everything else. Therefore your duty is to see that your tires give new mileage, and tire servicemen are ready to give you their aid.

"Our soldiers on the German frontier know that the road to Berlin must be traveled on rubber tires. Each soldier is doing his individual part in the greatest tire conservation campaign in history. Army trucks and jeeps in Europe are not turning over their wheels an unnecessary mile. In the back areas and along the fighting fronts, soldiers are recapping tires by the thousands, salvaging precious mileage, making the trucks run longer, hauling more tons of vital ammunition, material and supplies. If we at home are half as realistic as our fighting men, if we work half as hard to save the tires we do have, we will go a long way toward solving this most vexing problem. I urge all workers in war plants to watch their tire pressures, to repair and recap before it's too late."

BREHON SOMERVELL,

The greatest stockpile of rubber is still on the wheels of American motorists. It has been left in your care with the hope that your responsibilities will be fully realized and that you will protect the tires on your car. Only moderate care is necessary—such fundamentals as driving within moderate speed limits — keeping tires properly inflated — having tires repaired at the first sign of a bruise or break — and MOST IMPORTANT — to have your tires recapped when they are worn smooth. Your tire serviceman, who has kept you rolling, will do his share in careful inspection and sound advice based on intimate knowledge of tire ailments and what to do to correct them and give new tire mileage.

According to rationing regulations of the Office of Price Administration the fact that you do not take adequate care of your tires may be considered abuse. Under such conditions, you may be refused new tires even though you may be eligible. Tire care and conservation is YOUR individual responsibility. The need for extra tire care is urgent at this time and "CHECK-YOUR-TIRE WEEK" has the full indorsement of the Office of Price Administration and other Government agencies which are interested in conserving our home supply so that the needs of the armed forces can fully be met. Get every possible mile out of your tire by regular inspection and heeding the advice of the firms listed below who know real tire conservation.

Thousands of truck tires are ruined each day on the fighting fronts. Rubber-tired mobile guns, ammunition and supply trucks, kitchen equipment—hundreds of different kinds of trucks are subject to heavy bombardment, travel over shell-pocked roads — all of which reduces the life of the tire. Extreme care must be given to truck tires on the home front. There are not enough to meet the demand. The answer is to balance loads, properly match duals and have repairs made at the first indication of a bruise or break. Recapping will give adequate safe mileage at low cost per mile. It's the answer to "Keep Rolling."

Doris M. Peterson Becomes the Bride Of Sargent Tillard

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Peterson, 9 Water street, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 4 p. m. Saturday, when their daughter, Miss Doris M. Peterson, became the bride of T. Sgt. Irwin G. Tillard, of Fort Knox, Ky., son of Mrs. E. K. Tillard, Columbus Junction, Iowa.

Sixty-five guests witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Leon T. Ticknor, of Union City, before a background of palms and ferns arranged in one corner of the living room.

The bride wore a two piece dress of aqua, with accessories of black and white and corsage of gardenias. Her only attendant was Ann Tillard, of Chicago, sister of the bridegroom and former faculty member at the Hoff Business College here. Her one piece frock was of ash of roses, with matching flower hat and corsage of Tullis-man roses. Milton A. Peterson, brother of the bride, was best man for Sgt. Tillard.

The bride's mother wore navy and Mrs. Tillard, brown, each with a corsage of yellow roses. A reception followed immediately at the YVCA activities building, where a long table was attractively done in white spring flowers and candles and a miniature bride couple topped the pretty wedding cake.

Guests included the following from out of town: O. F. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Christofferson, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Litzen, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wallin, Joyce Wallin, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Janowsky, Carolyn Carlson, Lakewood, N. Y.; Dorothy Hood and Lloyd Hanna, Buffalo, N. Y.; Gladys Taylor, Sharon; Mrs. Leon H. Ticknor, Union City.

Following a short wedding trip, Mrs. Tillard will continue her employment in the office of the Pennsylvania Gas Company here and Sgt. Tillard will return to Fort Knox, where he was recently assigned following 30 months service in India.

Since announcement of her approaching marriage was made at a lovely party given by her mother, the bride-elect has been honored with many affairs, the following having been hostesses: Mrs. Melvin Thomas and Mrs. E. W. Williams; Mrs. O. F. Peterson and Lenora Carlson; Eunice Alexander, Edith Offerle, Florence Shawkey; Mrs. Charles Jones; Elizabeth Lopez; Margaret McCutchen; Mrs. Milton Peterson; members of her bridge club; Mrs. Carlton Kurz; Mrs. Harold Flowers and Mrs. G. W. Irwin. Out of town guests and the family were entertained at luncheon Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Peterson, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, at their home on West Third avenue.

Elof G. Nelson, 76, caretaker for the A. J. Hazeltine family for the last 44 years, and one of the best known men in Warren, was found dead in the boiler room of the garage building at 717 Fourth avenue west Sunday morning. A physician who was called informed Coroner Ed Lowrey that he probably died from a stroke of apoplexy some time late Saturday afternoon or evening. Discovery of the demise was made by Hugh V. Hazeltine who occupies a second-floor apartment in the building.

Mr. Nelson was born in Vim-mery, Sweden, July 23, 1868, but had resided in Warren for the last half century. His nearest surviving relative is a niece Mrs. D. Faulkner, Terre Haute, Ind. He was a member of the Warren Lodge of Moose and the S. F. of A.

Removal was made to the Borden funeral home in Sheffield where services will be held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Interment will be in the family lot in the Sheffield cemetery.

Will Reopen Old Time Road In Sheffield

A petition bearing the signatures of several hundred Sheffield citizens petitioning the court to have the township supervisors open and construct a road from a point in Center street, near the Pennsylvania gas company office to Horton avenue was favorably acted upon by Judge Allison D. Wade after going over the report of the viewers, who visited the scene and found the project to be badly needed.

Many of the older residents of Sheffield well remember when a road did exist at this point, when the tanning business was in its prime, but when that industry closed down the tanning company abandoned the road, but the public continued to use it as a short cut, but vehicles were unable to get through and the bridge at the approach to the road is in very bad condition and is not safe for the large number of children who use it daily in going to and from high school.

There is no question but what the opening and construction of the road will be of great benefit to all residents of the township and will do much to improve that section of the village. Much credit for bringing the project to a successful culmination is due to the work of circulating the petition and other details by Carl J. Anderson, Mike Papavera and R. E. Farnsworth.

FARMINGTON UNIT
Forty-three members and about 55 guests attended the regular meeting of Farmington PTA. After the routine opening, Norma Mills led the pledge of allegiance and announcement was made of the county council meeting to be held in Warren on March 28. Mrs. Marie Smith reported on the school lunch program and a Red Cross collection of $15 was taken. The unit voted to continue as sponsor of the Cub pack for another season and Mrs. Edna Sechrist was appointed to arrange for the preschool clinic, with Mrs. Fern Hensdale and Mrs. Dick Sloan as assistants. Principal Laurence Ormer urged the collection of papers and magazines for the salvage drive; also collection of rags and tin cans. The penny collection of $2.52 went to Mr. McCausland's room.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Cecil Cowles, of the program committee. Virginia Mae Skinner gave a poem, "The Wind," and H. L. Blair, county superintendent of schools, spoke and showed movies on "Visual Education." Concluding, refreshments were served by Mrs. Anna Nelson, Mrs. Blanche McJunkin, Mrs. Edna Sechrist and Mrs. Florence Haley.

Youngsville Betty Lee Fox Hunters Join Warren Easter Hats 1.98 to 7.98

The second, and last fox hunt of the year will be held by the Warren Field & Stream Club in conjunction with the Brokenstraw Valley Club of Youngsville next Sunday, March 25th. The hunt will be staged in an area near Garland and the local sportsmen are to meet at Finley's store at 9:30 and will meet the Youngsville group at Youngsville about 10:00 o'clock. Since this will be the last fox hunt this winter it is expected that a large group will participate in it. As always, a fox hunt lunch will be served by the committee, which will surely make the day a success if the boys find any fox or not.

Use ground meat promptly. If it is necessary to keep it more than a day, cover and freeze it.

-:- Buy War Bonds Now -:-

This month thousands of Americans will receive millions of Extra dollars

In March, 1935, thousands of Americans invested in the new U. S. "Baby Bonds."

These Bonds later became the United States War Bonds you buy today.

In March, 1945, this month, these thousands of Americans will receive a total of over $36,000,000... the full maturity value of those Bonds.

People of foresight, these thousands of Americans. People who can recognize the best bargain in the world, too... one which pays back $4 for every $3 they invested in these Bonds.

But above all, people with a plentiful amount of common sense, who realized that in order to reap the fullest harvest from their investment, they must wait until their Bonds matured before cashing them in.

That's something for you to think about whenever you are sorely tempted to cash in one of your Bonds before maturity date. You reduce the size of that fat nest egg. You toss away something which can play a big part in your future.

So, when you buy your Bonds, stick 'em away in a safe place... and forget about 'em until their time has come. It pays off in the long run!

Russians Gain In Offensive In Hungary (From Page One)

Reduction of the German garrison at Kolberg was in line with the pattern of recent Russian strategy in the "Kessels", a German word applied to stubbornly resisting pockets of troops.

Along the Baltic several "Kessels" still remain, including Danzig and Gdynia on the south and west shores of Danzig Bay and the coastal towns of Braunsberg and Heiligenberg, further to the east.

State Police Busy Seeking Stray Youths

A quartet of boys, lost and strayed, provided the only excitement experienced over the weekend by local State Police officers.

Locating one lad from Clarendon RD 1, who was feared lost in the woods or drowned, and three others who were hiking from Scottsville, N. Y., to Georgia with $3 as their total possessions.

Officers J. R. Krupey and A. A. Vavrek were called out Saturday night by Andrew Gregersen, Clarendon RD 1, who feared that his son, Roy, aged 14, might have become lost or drowned in Arnot Creek when he failed to return home. After combing the area between the creek and the prisoner of war camp on Bull Hill, the youth was located leaving the theatre in Sheffield.

The others, aged 15 and 16 years, were picked up by Pvt. J. J. Mastrian on the road to Youngsville. Authorities in Scottsville were contacted and came to Bradford to meet the police officer and the boys: Raymond Eugene Mack, George J. Jarrett and Edward Grant McArthur.

Corydon Joins In Sorrow Felt In Lad's Death

Corydon, March 18.—The following from the Bradford Era will be of interest to the many local friends of Pfc. John M. Cable, of Bradford, well known here, and whose parents maintain a summer home in Corydon, the community being saddened by the boy's untimely passing:

Mr. and Mrs. Gustine Cable, 225 Congress street, last night received a telegram from the War Department which notified them of the death of their son, Pfc. John M. Cable, United States Army, who was killed in action in Germany on March 4th.

Pfc. Cable, who was inducted into the army while he was a sophomore at the University of Tulsa, Okla., where he was a member of the college reserves, received his basic training at Camp Maxey, Texas, where he was transferred from Fort Sill, Okla. From Camp Maxey, Pfc. Cable and 70 other University of Tulsa students were sent to Ohio State University where they took a course in civil engineering.

After completing the course he was sent to Camp Swift, Texas, and then to Fort Dix, N. J. He was sent overseas in the latter part of September, 1944, and landed at Cherbourg, France. Attached to an infantry division of the Ninth Army, he saw action in France, Holland, Belgium and Germany. Pfc. Cable, who was born in Bradford, was a graduate of Bradford Senior High School.

self, to someone else, or to property. However, slight hurts and breakage where the result is immediate and within the child's understanding, often are best left without adult interference. Through such experiences a valuable lesson is learned. Seeing that routine habits conducive to health are carried out is an example of a thing when parents are entirely responsible.

Adult control gradually can be lessened as experience, self-discipline, and reason take hold in the child, states Miss Little. This giving up of outside authority takes place slowly and only a step at a time in the growth of the child.

Canned Tomatoes Good Source of Vitamin C—Lucky is the home-maker who has a good supply of canned tomatoes on hand, for they may be served at any meal during and in many different ways.

Start the day with a glass of tomato juice for breakfast. It gives that certain zest a breakfast needs to appeal to the family. If you are out of tomato juice, strain canned tomatoes. Serve the juice plain or season with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice if desired.

Cream of tomato soup, macaroni and tomatoes and cheese, rice and tomatoes, lima beans and tomato casserole, and tomato rammit are hearty dishes that may be served for lunch or supper. To make cream of tomato soup without curdling, use the following method: Measure out half as much tomatoes as milk. Add to the tomatoes a slice of onion, a teaspoon of butter, and salt and pepper to taste. Just before ready to serve, add the cold tomatoes and seasoning to the milk, quickly bring to the simmering point and serve at once.

Tomatoes are a good source of vitamin C which helps keep the mouth and gums in a healthy condition, helps build strong teeth, and helps build up resistance to infections. Because vitamin C cannot be stored in the body, a good source of this vitamin is needed every day. A person who does not get enough vitamin C daily may be cross, restless, have a run-down feeling, and his gums swell and bleed.

The new program for certification of deferment requests will enable the War Production Board and other designated sponsoring agencies and military services to certify as to the irreplaceability and indispensability of a limited number of essential employees under 30 years of age who are engaged in war work and essential civilian activities. R. W. DeLancey, district manager for the Erie WPB area said today in explaining the procedures for handling deferment requests of registrants 18 through 29.

These certifications will guide local draft boards in passing on requests for deferments by employers whose activities fell under the jurisdiction of the Sponsoring Agency. The procedure will cover all men who were classified as 2A or 2B on January 1, 1945.

"The prospective draft-calls for the next six months will make it possible to provide protection for only a vital 'hard core' of workers under 30 who are engaged in war production and war supporting activities," Mr. DeLancey declared.

Certification as to essentiality of WPB, or some other authorized agency, will assist local draft boards in making decisions by processing the new revised form 2A special. The WPB, as one of several agencies authorized to certify draftable men through 29, will evaluate the irreplaceability and indispensability of workers only if WPB is the proper certifying agency. No individual plant or establishment may submit applications for deferment to more than one certifying agency.

If certifications are required of the WPB district office by employers whose production or service seems to fall under the jurisdiction of some other certifying agency, these employers will be instructed as to the proper certifying agency.

As a basis for determining which registrants, ages 18 through 29, may be certified for occupational deferment, Mr. DeLancey gave the following information which each qualified employer will need to submit to the certifying agency:

One guide should be the prices actually charged for vegetables last summer. From records of the O.P.A. in Chicago the ceilings in effect last August at this central point were obtained, and are shown in the accompanying table.

Note that tomatoes, in the month when the harvest from Victory gardens was in full flow, cost the consumer 23 cents a pound. An average tomato weighs at least half a pound, and many a Victory gardener apologizes for specimens which scale less than three quarters. And the tomato specialists do not brag about a specimen for size unless it weighs at least two pounds.

Taking the average size, however, a half-pound tomato cost in the market last summer 11 1/2 cents, which is $1.38 a dozen. Suppose it were oranges, which share with the tomato first place on the list of nutritious juice producers. If you had to pay $1.38 a dozen for oranges, but had had only to plant a tree in your own backyard in order to grow a year's supply of juice for very little, what would you do?

Other items on the list show equal opportunities. Highest prices are charged for those that take the most labor to cultivate and harvest, and these, it is reported, will be even scarcer next summer, and so may be still higher priced.

With beans valued at 15 1/2 cents a pound, a two-pound egg plant at 26 cents, peppers at 19 1/2 cents, and cucumbers at 7 cents, leisure hours devoted to pleasurable work in the Victory garden will pay high wages next summer.
